Gear Falling From Plane Imperils Two

Birmingham, Ala.—(AP)—Survival gear from a passing military plane crashed to the ground within a few feet of two children yesterday, but they were unharmed.

Mrs. Cecil E. Hanks saw the objects drop from the sky, one 30-pound kit striking near Drew Nesmith, 6, and Marty Garrett, 5.

"I couldn't even speak," she said.

Fire Marshal W. E. Berry said that Mrs. Hanks' failure to cry out may have saved the lives of the boys.

"Because if she had seen them sooner and yelled, the children would likely have run toward her—and right to their deaths," Berry said.

The equipment fell from a KB50 air force tanker which had just taken off from Birmingham for overseas.

Want Explanation of Group's Powers, Duties And Proposed Procedure

Washington —(AP)— A St. Louis police detective today described Teamster Vice President Harold Gibbons as a cop-hating associate of underworld characters whose labor activities have been filled with violence.

"Practically every strike he has been involved in has had occasions of violence and destruction of property," Detective Capt. Thomas L. Moran told the senate racketeering investigating committee.

Moran said Gibbons tells St. Louis Teamsters to regard police as strikebreakers on the side of management. He added that Gibbons once told him Gibbons' brother was a Chicago policeman and said "he hasn't talked to him since the day he went on the force."

Moran testified that Gibbons "seems to have more than a talking acquaintance with some of the leading underworld figures."

He specifically mentioned John Vitale, reputed head of the Italian crime syndicate in St. Louis, and Joe Costello, who has been described as the leading fence or dealer in stolen property in St. Louis.

Washington —(AP)— Court-appointed monitors keep in g watch over the teamsters union demanded an explanation today of what union boss James R. Hoffa is up to in creating his own commission to hunt down racketeers.

The board instructed Hoffa to furnish by Aug. 28 a "detailed report concerning the reasons for the establishment of the commission, its powers and duties, its proposed procedures, and its proposed relationship to the board of monitors."

In a letter to Hoffa, Martin F. O'Donoghue, chairman of the board of monitors, said the board had learned of Hoffa's "anti-racketeering commission" only through the public press.

"This commission is being created and appointments are being made without consultation with, or even notice to, the monitors," O'Donoghue wrote.

Release of the letter coincided with a denial from U. S. District Judge F. Dickinson Letts, who created the monitor board, that he had encouraged Republican former Sen. George Bender of Ohio to take up the anti-racketeering job as head of the Hoffa-appointed commission.

Bender had said he received such encouragement in consultation with the judge.

Need for Cleanup

Bender also quoted Letts as saying there is a need for a cleanup in the union.

Letts, reached at Dennis, Mass., where he is on vacation, said he may have made the remark about the need for a cleanup.

Letts added that there "can't be any conflict" between Hoffa's commission and the 3-man Hoffa board.

The possibility of such conflict was broadly implied by O'Donoghue in his letter to Hoffa.

In advance of the release of the letter Godfrey P. Schmidt, another of the court-appointed group, described Hoffa's action in creating his own anti-racketeering board as outrageous.

Schmidt said in New York yesterday that "Hoffa can now say the monitors are no longer necessary because the union has got its own watchdogs. This is a typical piece of complicated Hoffa conspiracy."

In addition to Bender, the members of the Hoffa appointed group are F. Joseph Donohue, Democratic former president of the District of Columbia board of commissioners, and Ira W. Jayne, a retired Detroit judge.

The court-appointed board is operating under a compromise settlement of a suit against the teamsters union by a group of dissident mem-

France Tries to End Terrorism

Stern Action to Curb Algerians Demanded by Press

Paris —(AP)— Oil depot fires touched off by Algerian terrorists still blazed today as demands rose for stern counteraction.

Earth barricades were being thrown up around the Mourepiane fuel tank farm on the outskirts of Marseille in an effort to contain the holocaust there. Firemen could do little but let the flaming gasoline and oil burn out.

Other fires at Narbonne and Toulouse were believed under control.

The interior ministry put special security measures into effect to prevent renewal of the hit and run terrorism which erupted across France before dawn yesterday. It was the worst outbreak in metropolitan France since the Algerian rebellion began nearly four years ago.

Troops on Guard

Soldiers were posted around a number of key points and installations. A previously planned special brigade was activated to coordinate the campaign against terrorism.

The respected morning newspaper Le Figaro demanded in a front-page editorial that authorities act quickly to stem the terrorism.

"The climate of terror that the Algerian killers create at their pleasure and design on our metropolitan soil and in Algeria must cease," the paper said. "The forces of order have the means to act. . . . They should be given carte blanche."

The right wing L'Aurore defiantly declared that the Algerian nationalists were badly mistaken if they thought the new terrorism would upset plans for France's constitutional referendum Sept. 28.

Second Link of New Illinois Toll System To Be Opened Thursday

Chicago —(AP)— The second link in the $441 million Illinois toll highway system, a 30-mile section between north suburban Highland Park and the Wisconsin line, will open Thursday.

However, the state toll highway commission said Monday the 6 p.m. opening will be without the type of fanfare which opened the first link of the 187-mile tollway last Wednesday.

At that time dedication ceremonies lasted some nine hours and extended over the 76-mile length of the highway between northwest Chicago and South Beloit via Rockford.

The newest section will connect Edens Expressway, a freeway extending from Chicago to Highland Park, and U. S. Route 41 in Wisconsin and thus provide a link for travel between Chicago and Milwaukee.

One-way fare for a passenger automobile on the entire 30-mile section will be 60 cents.

420 Traffic Deaths Seen for Long Weekend

Nelson Rockefeller, New York State GOP candidate for governor is all smiles as he takes the speaker's rostrum and raises his hands in victory at the Republican convention at Rochester Monday night.

Propose Senate Race By Wagner, Keating

By The Associated Press

Backstage battling over nominees for a U. S. Senate seat stalled New York state Republican and Democratic conventions today, after each party had united to nominate gubernatorial candidates — Rockefeller versus Harriman.

The big question at the Democratic convention in Buffalo was whether Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City would be drafted to run for the senate. Wagner said again that he was not a candidate.

At the GOP gathering in Rochester, Rep. Kenneth B. Keating of Rochester, held delegates in suspense while he debated whether to accept the Republican senate nomination.

Conventions Recess

Both conventions recessed meanwhile. Decisions were expected in late afternoon or evening.

Harriman Nominated

At Buffalo, the Democrats nominated Gov. Averell Harriman for a second 4-year term.

He accepted with an attack on the Republican "old guard," which he said was responsible for the recession.

Republicans at Rochester chose Nelson A. Rockefeller, who charged that Harriman had allowed the state's economy to drift, "with a resultant lag in industry, jobs and income."

18 Persons Missing From Polish Vessel

Stockholm —(AP)— Police reported today that 18 passengers of the 112 aboard the Polish ship Mazowsze were missing when it sailed last night.

Five of the passengers have already reported to the police as the first step in seeking asylum.

Broad jumper Zlata Rozkosna of the Czechoslovak team at the European track and field championships in Stockholm also decided not to return home. She asked for asylum today.

At Nynashamn, a port south of Stockholm, four members of a Polish sailing party, one a woman, came ashore and refused to return home. Four companions who did want to return did not know how to sail.

Washington —(AP)— Administration sources said today President Eisenhower is expected to sign the bill increasing social security benefits by about 7 per cent.

Eisenhower may, however, strongly criticize provisions increasing the federal grant contribution to public assistance programs run by the states.

Persons in position to know said the president and Secretary of Welfare Flemming have strong feelings against increasing the federal share in supporting such programs benefiting the aged, dependent children, the blind and totally disabled.

But these sources said it has been decided the merits of the legislation outweigh the demerits.

Election Factor

And though they did not mention it, this is an election year and practical politics is a likely factor.

The principle demerit is described as the $198 million annual increase in the federal share of funds congress voted for the federal-state public assistance program.

Points regarded as favorable include these:

Increased social security insurance benefits — establishing a new monthly minimum of $33 instead of $30 and a

Industrialist in Lebanon Shot to Death by Assassin

Beirut —(AP)— A gunman today shot and killed Abdullah Nurallah, secretary of the Lebanese industrialist organization, in one of Beirut's traffic jammed streets.

Nurallah was shot while leaving his car near a friend's office. He resigned a year ago as secretary of the najada party, a Lebanese organization now joining the rebels.

Meanwhile, U. S. troops and tanks took up positions next to rebel outposts along the road between Beirut and international airport. The aim is to stop sniper fire along the roadway.

This is the closest any members of the U. S. armed forces have come to rebel lines.

An announcement issued by the military command said the Americans set up tank strong points at three places to guard against sniper fire and other harassment.

Students Take Over Campus

Barricade Selves To Continue War On Bus System

Mexico City —(AP)— Rebelious students were barricaded on the University of Mexico's lushly modernistic campus today, calling for a monster rally tonight in support of their war on the capital's bus system.

The students blocked off entrances to the campus with buses which they seized over the weekend and began rationing food they served themselves in the university cafeteria.

A battalion of troops camped last night in a park near the university, on the southern outskirts of Mexico City, but made no attempt to move in on the students. Teachers continued to hold classes but attendance was low.

Seize Radio Station

Some of the students took over the university radio station and appealed for a big public turnout for the demonstration they planned for sundown in the Central plaza of the republic. There were widespread fears that new violence would break out.

The student rebellion started last week as a protest against a small hike in bus fares, ordered to pay bus drivers higher salaries. When the government promised that the rate increase would not apply to students, they demanded that the increase be suspended for all. That bus drivers unite in a single union, and that service be improved.

Faubus asked the legislature for a bill that would empower him to close the state's public schools — specifically, in the current case, Central High school — against forced integration.

Faubus has said the school-closing measure is necessary to avoid a repetition of the rioting that occurred outside Central High school a year ago when Negroes first were admitted to its classrooms.

Washington —(AP)— President Eisenhower today proposed bolstering the resources of the world bank and the international monetary fund to help promote the economic growth of the free world.

Eisenhower directed Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson to propose the moves at the annual meeting of the bank and fund next month in New Delhi, India.

Man Forfeits $169 Bond

Robert J. Schuette Arrested for Drunken Driving

Robert J. Schuette, 21, 108 E. Cook street, New London, forfeited a $169.95 bond and his driver's license was revoked for one year by Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieg this morning on a charge of drunken driving.

Schuette was arrested by county police about 1:30 Sunday morning in Dale. Police said Schuette drove about 120 feet on the wrong side of the road, broke off a road marker post, ran over a culvert, broke off a school zone sign and came to rest in a garden 30 feet from the road.

Schuette tested .20 on the drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Schuette's passenger, Allen Burns, 22, 122 Lom street, New London, was fined $25 for drunkenness. Burns, too, tested .20 on the drunkometer.

Chinese Reds Shell Quemoy for 4th Day

Tempo Increased Again After Slowdown Monday; Report MIG Pilots Defect to Nationalists

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Taipei, Formosa —(AP)— The Chinese communists bombarded Quemoy in short, furious bursts for the fourth straight day today; again increasing the volume of shells poured into the little Chinese nationalist outpost island.

The bombardment which some officials feared was a prelude to invasion of the nationalist offshore island began with about 80,000 shells over the weekend but subsided yesterday to some 2,900 shots. Today the reds stepped up the tempo again.

In three rounds of shelling from the nearby mainland beginning shortly after midnight, the communists hit Quemoy and the nearby Taishan islands about 600 times, the nationalist defense ministry said. Then in 2 hours and 40 minutes of early afternoon some 5,500 shells crashed down on the heavily fortified islands.

Report Pilots Defect
Three newspapers in Taipei issued extras saying communist MIG17 jet fighters flown by defecting pilots had landed on Formosa. One paper said two pilots had defected.

General Motors Names 2 New Firm Chiefs

Engineer, Finance Expert Chosen Chief Executive Officers

BY DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Writer

Detroit —(AP)— A finance expert and an authority on production and engineering have Doner been named to direct the destinies of the world's biggest industrial corporation.

General Motors directors yesterday elected Frederic G. Doner, 56, board chairman and chief executive officer, and John F. Gordon, 58, as president and chief operating officer.

Their election, effective Sept. 1, followed the retirement of Albert Bradley, chairman of the board, and Harlow H. Curtsie, both of whom have passed GM's normal retirement age of 65. In effect Curtsie's job as president and chief executive officer is being divided between Doner and Gordon.

Doner has been with General Motors since 1926; Gordon joined the corporation in 1923. Doner's work has been almost entirely in finance; Gordon's in engineering and production.

See Battle Indications
In the selection of the two new top executives industry circles see an indication of the competitive battle GM anticipates in the post-recession period. It has been said in automotive circles that whenever a new president is named by General Motors, an individual with precisely the talents needed at the time has been chosen. So it was when William S. Knudsen, one of the greatest production experts in industry history, became GM president in 1937; when Charles E. Wilson, an engineer, was elected in 1941 and when he was succeeded by Curtsie, master salesman, in 1953.

Industry analysts say the battle ahead in which GM will seek to hold its dominating role in automotive production and another paper said eight. The defense ministry spokesman, Rear Adm. Liu Hoh Tu, flatly denied the reports but rumors persisted that something had happened which authorities found inexpedient to disclose.

With the Seventh fleet already on the alert, a landing force of 1,600 men from the 3rd Marine division was ordered to sail from Singapore. The destination of the four attack transports and four accompanying ships was not disclosed, but it was assumed they were moving closer to Formosa.

The seventh fleet is pledged to protect Formosa but not necessarily Quemoy or the offshore islands. Officials in Washington said close watch was being kept on the stepup in the communist attack.

Maj. Gen. Thomas F. Moorman, commander of the U.S. 13th air force based in the Philippines, visited Formosa for talks with top nationalist and U.S. military assistance officers.

Nationalist authorities were paying increasing attention to the possibility that the communists would try to seize Tungting island, 17 miles south of Quemoy. The defense ministry said two red attempts Sunday to land troops on the tiny, rocky island were repulsed by nationalist warships. Officials suspected, however, that the communists might not have given up.

Tungting is used by the nationalists to keep tabs on ships trying to sneak out of Amoy, the communist port opposite Quemoy, so nationalist warships can be alerted to intercept them. Its capture would help the reds evade nationalist blockades. The island is believed fairly well fortified and garrisoned by the nationalists.

Peiping radio claimed that communist planes shot down a nationalist Sabre jet over the Formosa strait yesterday, just off the coast of Fukien. There was no confirmation from the nationalist defense ministry.

Eight Killed in 2-Car Collision

Harrisonville, Mo.—Two cars collided on a curve in U. S. Highway 71 bypass yesterday, killing eight persons. Two others were injured in the collision four and one-half miles north of here.

Dead are: Andrew Boyd Jones, 34, Sun Valley, Calif.; his wife, Letha, about 30; their children, Susie, 5, and Larry Gene, 9; Earl R. Jones, 52, Nevada, Mo., brother of Andrew Jones; Rickie Galloway, 5, Nevada, Mo.; Maurice Jones, 43, Kansas City, Mo., and Norman Wayne Jones, 35, Huntington Park, Calif.

Mrs. Myrtle Allen Galloway, 25, of Nevada, mother of Rickie and daughter of Earl Jones, and Leo Charles Jones, 14, son of Earl, were injured. Maurice and Norman Jones, who were brothers, were in a southbound car. They were not related to the eight in the other auto.

State Trooper R. L. Hampton said the accident happened on dry pavement at a time when visibility was good. Cause of the wreck wasn't known.

and sales will involve major problems in finance and engineering.

It was under Curtsie's driving energy and his philosophy that General Motors "always must lead" that the far flung corporation in 1955 became the first and only industrial enterprise to pile up more than a billion dollars in net profits for a single year.

Held Leadership
General Motors did not duplicate the billion dollar profit in 1956 or 1957, but held its leadership in the industry with nearly 51 per cent of over-all sales in 1956 and 48.86 in 1957. In the first half of the current year it had increased its sales to almost 49 per cent.

Generally it came through the recession that hit the car industry about a year ago in better shape than its major competitors. Auto industry circles have heard many predictions that car production in the years ahead will exceed even the record — smashing 7,920,000 units built in 1955. Some forecasters, including retiring Curtsie, have predicted that by 1965 possibly eight million cars annually will be needed to meet the American market requirements.

Ask State to Avoid Clamp on Waste Disposal

Stringent Measures May Repel Industry, Paper Official Says

Madison —(AP)— A member of the Legislative Council Water Resources committee said Monday the state should consider stringent waste disposal requirements with reluctance lest new industry is driven off.

John E. Becker, a committee member representing the Rhinelander Paper company, said Wisconsin is far ahead of other states in handling water pollution. He emphasized there is no one answer on how best to deal with pollution problems.

Becker added, however, that to clamp restrictions on industry "would merely add another question mark" to Wisconsin's desirability as a plant location site.

Theodore Wisniewski, director of the State Water Pollution committee, said new industries should be asked to prepare comprehensive studies of their waste disposal problems. He said it would be better to let new firms know what is expected of them before new installations are made, instead of waiting to tell them afterward.

In another action Monday, the committee asked the attorney general to recommend effective penalties and enforcement procedures in placing restrictions on high capacity wells.

The committee referred to a 1957 bill that got nowhere in the legislature. It had been recommended by the Natural Resources committee and called for restricting the output of high producing wells. The committee said such a measure would protect the public from excess water withdrawal from underground.

GOP Hits at Democrat Curb On Labor Bills

Congressman Says Measures Blocked to Please Union Bigwigs

Chicago —(AP)— Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) told members of the Republican National committee today that Democratic leaders in congress blocked all labor legislation this year to please union bigwigs.

"Walter Reuther, David McDonald and other bigwigs in the labor hierarchy did not want restrictions imposed on their reckless activities," Simpson said, "so they simply passed the word down to those who serve them in the senate and the house."

Simpson, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, echoed a keynote sounded earlier by GOP Chairman Maude Alcorn for this fall's Republican congressional campaigns.

Alcorn said before the 2-day meeting of the party's 147-member national committee began that failure of congress to pass any measure to curb labor racketeering "is a dramatic demonstration of the need for a Republican congress."

The national committee laid plans for intensive campaign efforts on behalf of party candidates for congress during September and October.

Concurrent with the national committee, the GOP national finance committee met to discuss fund-raising. The finance committee, headed by Spencer T. Olin of Alton, Starkville, Miss. —(AP)— A kite was used at Mississippi State university to dislodge a pair of blue panties from a campus flagpole.

Aerodynamicist J. J. Cronin III told of the situation in a paper released by the school yesterday. The feminine panties had been hoisted to the top of the drill field flag staff and the hallway cut so they couldn't be hauled down.

Basting said a preliminary investigation indicated the man was an alcoholic who went on one of his periodic binges shortly after the slaying. He wound up in a Hillsboro hospital and was released Monday. He went to Mauston, where he was picked up by police who had been asked to look for him.

Mrs. Mauch was slain with a brick wrapped in a man's argyle sock.

Steinle Raps Bills Sought By Proxmire

By The Associated Press
Roland J. Steinle, Republican candidate for senator, Monday night told a GOP fund raising dinner at La Crosse that Sen. William Proxmire's social security bill would have reduced wage earner's spending ability and declared the Democrat's agricultural bill "would have completely regimented the nation's farmers."

Wisconsin Democrats will meet in several places Wednesday night, including Little Chute, to celebrate the first anniversary of Proxmire's Aug. 27, 1957, victory in the special U. S. senate election.

Gov. Vernon Thomson told a Republican rally in Milwaukee Monday night that Wisconsin Democrats apparently follow a campaign theme of "If you can't convince the voters, confuse them."

Raps Thomson
State Sen. Gaylord Nelson, Madison, Democratic candidate for governor, spoke in Westby Monday night and accused Gov. Thomson and his Republican predecessors of "flim-flamming the farmers of Wisconsin for years."

Lt. Gov. Warren Knowles told the La Crosse GOP dinner Monday night that "irresponsible" Democratic critics of the state building program ignore the program's visible accomplishments.

Knowles earlier had remarked that a candidate for attorney general was using billboard advertising citizens to elect him as a way to fight the sale tax. Knowles commented that the attorney has no law-making authority concerning a sales tax or any other legislation.

U. S. Asking Iraq to Ease Restrictions on Diplomats in Baghdad

Will View Attitude as Clue Of Relations to be Expected

BY JOHN SCALI

Washington —(AP)— The United States is pressing Iraq's revolutionary government to ease restrictions on American diplomats in Baghdad.

Iraq's attitude on this will be viewed as a clue to the sincerity of its pledge to seek friendly relations with the United States.

Diplomatic officials who reported this said reopening of the U. S. information office, shut down since the revolt exploded six weeks ago, is one of the steps the new regime has been asked to take.

The state department also is urging Iraq to end half a dozen other annoying restrictions hampering the work of diplomats both in the U. S. embassy and in American consulates.

These restrictions, officials said, are not viewed as a deliberate campaign of harassment at this time. Rather, they are looked on as being the result of confusion and over-zealous supervision evident since the July 14 change in government.

Asks 6 Steps
To back up its pledge of friendship, the Iraq government is being asked to:

1. Restore normal phone service for the U. S. embassy. At present the embassy is reported to have only two lines whereas it formerly had 10.
2. Allow coded diplomatic messages to be sent between the American embassy and U. S. consulates at Basra and Kirkuk.

3. Permit full access by American military advisers to their office, which has been closed since the revolt.

This 85-man mission helped train the Iraq army in the use of American weapons before the revolt. At present U. S. officers are allowed access to their headquarters only if escorted by an Iraqi officer.

4. Stop delaying diplomatic pouches sent to and from the United States.

5. Make certain Iraqi soldiers guarding the embassy allow full, quick access to it by U. S. diplomats as well as Iraqi nationals employed by it.

At one point, some employees were stopped and searched on entering and leaving but this practice evidently has tapered off.

6. Return a jeep belonging to two American Marines who were arrested while watching an oil fire in Baghdad. The men were freed after three days but their vehicle is still being held.

The state department also is unhappy about some bitter anti-American propaganda broadcast by radio Baghdad. The official Iraq government station has given considerable attention to charges that the United States plotted to stir up revolt in neighboring Syria.

Top Composer in Britain Dies at 85

London —(AP)— Ralph Vaughan Williams, 85, dean of British composers, died early today.

Vaughan Williams, one of the 20th century's leading composers, was busy writing music at his London home up to yesterday. He was taken ill suddenly and died early this morning.

The cause of death was not immediately announced. His wife, Ursula, was at his bedside. His former secretary, she married him five years ago.

Vaughan Williams had been recognized as Britain's leading symphonic composer since the death of Sir Edward Elgar in 1934. He did more than any other musician to develop the idiom of English folk songs in the symphonic form.

He wrote his first symphony in 1907 and his last, No. 9, early this year. He attended the premiere of the ninth symphony at London's Royal Festival hall last February. He was given a place of honor in the royal box, where he acknowledged the applause of a cheering audience.

In recent years his symphonies have enjoyed an increasing vogue in the United States.

People of Countries Know Little About the Other, Dr. Murphy Says

BY JAMES E. GUNN
"Many of our international tensions stem from the fact that we don't know much about how the USSR works and the Soviet people don't know much about our capitalistic society."
This is one of the basic conclusions University of Kansas Chancellor Franklin D. Murphy brought back from a 3-week tour of Soviet institutions of higher education. With him were six other heads of U. S. universities.
"I was amazed at the relative ignorance of intelligent Soviet people about the United States, just as I was at our ignorance about the Soviet Union. And yet it was a revelation that a group such as ours could go to a country with whose ideological philosophy we basically disagree and communicate with its people on a friendly basis."

The group did not merely skim over the surface. It traveled 6,000 miles through the Soviet Union, spending four days in Moscow; two days in Leningrad; two days in Tbilisi, Georgia; two days in Tashkent, Uzbekistan; and two days at Alma-Ata, Kazakhstan. Most of the trip was made in swift jet airliners.
As official delegates, the group was the guest of the

Atlantic City Back in Business as Try-Out For Broadway Shows

New York — After a quarter century lapse, Atlantic City, N.J., is again to become an important tryout stop for Broadway-bound productions.
The shore resort receives in September "Drink to Me Only" as the first show under its revived status. The comedy by Abram S. Ginn and Ira Wallach is being directed by George Abbott. Local business interests have raised a $125,000 fund to underwrite presentation of at least five shows during the season.

guage papers were the London Daily Worker and the Moscow Times. The only German newspapers and magazines came from East Germany.

"The slanting is so obvious that you just cease reading. I have a hunch that the educated Soviet people have learned to be schizophrenic. They read Pravda, but they do not believe it."

"A Soviet professor once asked me seriously what criticisms I had of the USSR. I told him that any modern culture must be built on a tripod of three legs: (1) the industrial-technological, and in this the USSR has done very well; (2) the cultural - intellectual, and the USSR has made surprising strides; but (3) recognition of the spirit of the individual man is wholly lacking.

Need of State

"Everything in the Soviet Union is based on the need of the state, and only incidentally and accidentally does the individual receive development."

Despite the friendliness and lack of restrictions, Dr. Murphy had a feeling of relief on leaving the country. "It was not fear we felt there, but the lack of elbow room for ideas and free speech and individuality."

In October or November six to eight Russian educators will come to this country for an inspection trip similar to that made by Dr. Murphy's group. Some or all of them will visit the University of Kansas.

"Missions such as this," Dr. Murphy said earnestly, "are our great white hope for getting a clear understanding of each other — something that must come before agreement."

"And we can learn something from the Soviets. We don't need their system, but we do need some of their fervor."

Morale Low in Hungary, Red Army Vet Says

Hof, Germany — Morale of Russian troops who quelled the Hungarian uprising in 1956 was extremely low, a Soviet army veteran told newsmen here.

"Alcohol was the only thing which gave us some comfort," Gerhard Lepa, a 25-year-old ex-private said, "We got drunk frequently to forget."

Lepa, of German extraction, was born in Tilsit, now Soviet Lithuania. He arrived here last week after the Russians handed them an exit visa under the Bonn-Moscow repatriation agreement. He served three years in the Soviet army.
He said his unit was transferred from Russia to near Budapest a few days after Premier Imre Nagy took over as head of the rebel regime.
"Our commanding officers told us that American agents had started an uprising in Hungary and that we had to put up a determined fight," He said hatred of the Russians had been immense in Hungary. Repeatedly Soviet soldiers were killed by Hungarian partisans after general fighting had ended, he said.

3-Cent Stamp Goes Way of Nickel Cigar

Washington — The 3-cent stamp has gone the way of the nickel cigar.

In recent years the post office department has issued many billions of 3-cent stamps annually. Now no 3-cent stamps at all will roll from the presses until its stock is depleted.

Overnight, as of Aug. 1, the most popular best-seller for first-class mail became a 4-cent lavender stamp with a brooding likeness of Lincoln.

But the 3-cent stamp slips from a major to a minor role with unusual honors. No other denomination has had such a diversified career, the National Geographic society says.

The nation's first 3-cent stamp appeared in 1851, four years after the government started issuing adhesive postage stamps. Brick red, it carried a profile of Washington after the bust by Houdon. Washington was a popular subject that year. His portrait also decorated 1851's 10, 12, 14, and 90-cent stamps.

From then until now, 3-cent stamps have provided far more revenue than any other denomination. In the fiscal year 1957 alone, some 24,250,000,000 were sold, bringing a return of about $475,000,000.

There have been three regular issues of 3-centers in the last two decades — 1938's Jefferson, the most used stamp on record; 1952's NATO stamp and 1954's Statue of Liberty.

The regular 3-cent stamps and numerous commemoratives form a remarkable album of American notables, of historic events and places, of leading industries and institutions.

Last year, for instance, commemoratives noted the 350th anniversary of American shipbuilding, the bicentennial of Alexander Hamilton and Lafayette, the 150th anniversary of the Coast and Geodetic survey, the centennial of the American Institute of Architects and the steel industry. Others honored American teachers and the national antipoll campaign.

Washington's stern face has gazed from at least 14 3-cent stamps. These include commemoratives marking his birthday bicentennial, the end of the revolution, his first inauguration, and the Battle of Brooklyn.

Other Presidents Presidents Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln, and both Roosevelts have adorned the 3-cent stamp, as have Generals Sherman, Grant, and Sheridan.

Still others were Edgar Allen Poe, Luther Burbank, Victor Herbert, Al Smith, Thomas Edison, Joseph Pulitzer, George Washington Carver, Clara Barton, Will Rogers, Joel Chandler Harris, Samuel Gompers, Betsy Ross, George Eastman, Andrew Mellon, and "Casey" Jones of railroad fame.

A striking series of 3-centers, inaugurated in 1956, emphasizes wildlife conservation. The series has featured the wild turkey, prong-horn antelope, king salmon, and whooping crane.

Over the years most 3-cent stamps have been printed in shades of violet, though a few have been designed in tints of green, blue, maroon, brown, yellow, and gray. A 1957 stamp in black commemorated religious freedom in America.

One 3-cent stamp, a 1947 commemorative marking the 100th anniversary of United States postage stamps, holds an all-time sales record. The public purchased 7,500,000 copies of it on the first day of issue.

Research Shows House Fly Not Heavy Disease Carrier

BY JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

Bloomington, Ind.—The house fly, bred in flight, has the peculiar ability to shed the disease-causing germs it lived with at birth, a University of Illinois researcher said Monday.

For this season, the importance of disease carrying by flies born in refuse and other dangerous bacteria havens is probably slight, the researchers reported.

Dr. Bernhard Greenberg, Illinois zoologist, traced the numbers of bacteria present in the house fly at various stages of its growth.

His report was presented at the American Institute of Biological Sciences meeting at Indiana university.

Flies lay their eggs in such places as garbage, manure and sewage. The maggots which soon hatch carry tens of millions of bacteria in their systems, Dr. Greenberg said.

But at the time the larva has formed its hard outer case, it has rid itself of about 90 per cent of this bacteria load.

When the fly finally emerges, it carries with it about 1,000 bacteria—five hundred on its surface and a similar number internally.

While the fly undoubtedly spreads some of these bacteria, it is not as serious a carrier as was earlier believed, Dr. Greenberg said.

In another paper, a University of Chicago scientist reported that green algae—those one celled plants that band together in colonies and sometimes appear as green scum on ponds—change their way of living to suit their environment.

Algae Changes

In sunlight, the common algae grows as an ordinary green plant. But deprived of light and air, it lives in fermentation like baker's yeast, reported research associate Dale S. Weis. He worked on the project with Ilmansu Mukerjee of Berlin, Germany.

A way to give new lawns a boost in growth was reported by a Michigan State university researcher, George McVey. He obtained good results with gibberlic acid, a plant growth stimulator. But he also had to keep the lawns well fertilized or they grew pale in their rapid growth.

Crackdown on Moslem Tribes In Red China

Report Uprisings Against Atheistic Communist Regime

Hong Kong — Communist China, which claims to support Moslem nationalism abroad, is cracking down on some 10 million Moslems at home.

And reports reaching Hong Kong tell of isolated uprisings by Chinese Moslems against the atheist regime. They speak of party purges, forced collectivization and criticism of Moslem nationalism in China.

Communist press reports said local Moslem leaders and priests last July incited more than 1,000 Hui tribesmen, one of the largest Moslem minority groups in China, to revolt. The tribesmen reportedly killed a communist official in east China's Shantung province. The reports said the revolt was "resolutely crushed."

Full-Scale Revolt

Nationalist sources said, a full-scale revolt has broken out in Sinkiang province and that more than 10,000 well armed Moslem Uighur tribesmen are fighting the reds.

Ma Ching Nien, vice governor of northwest China's Kansu province, recently lashed out at Chinese Moslem provincial cadres in the Kansu daily newspaper. These groups, he said, take communist China's "constitutional guarantee of religious freedom literally and allow people to preach as they please, build mosques everywhere and urge agriculture cooper-

Johnson Held Responsible for Killing Bills

Majority Leader Said to Manipulate, Delay Senate Action

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Did Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Democratic majority leader, betray the south in its fight to preserve states' rights? Did he do so in order to curry favor with northern liberals who might help him get the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960?

These questions are being asked today on Capitol Hill as many indignant southerners hold the Texas senator responsible for lining up the votes that killed anti-subversive legislation as well as bills proposed to correct supreme court decisions on states' rights questions.

The main criticism is that Lyndon Johnson cleverly manipulated the parliamentary situation in such a way as to hold off till the last minute action by the senate on crucial bills, when it was a question either of a filibuster that would have delayed adjournment or killing the legislation at this session.

Key Roll-Call

The key roll-call came in the senate last week when, by a 41-to-40 vote, a most important measure — giving states the right to punish sedition and subversion and also dealing with the broader question of states' rights — was defeated. Johnson himself voted with the northern liberals. The only other defections from the southern group were Sen. Yarborough of Texas and Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee. Even Sen. Gore of Tennessee, often called a moderate, voted with his southern colleagues.

A report on what transpired behind the scenes comes from Rowland Evans, Jr., of the Washington staff of the New York Herald Tribune, who writes:

"A remarkable display of legislative black magic, a strange and occult art for which Sen. Lyndon Johnson is justly famous, swept from the senate floor the Smith bill, the potent weapon of rebuke that the anti-coalition had wheeled up against the supreme court."

"The Smith bill, in short, had to be sent back to committee, and by a combination of ingenious plays it finally was."

Old Political Game
What was this "black magic"? The majority leader is usually the only one who knows in advance how each senator may vote. The story goes that Sen. Johnson told many a Senator that his particular vote was needed to break a tie and then, with lots of legislative favors that a majority leader alone can bestow to benefit the interests of a senator in question when bills in which he happens to be interested may come up subsequently in the session, the trade is supposed to have been made. It's the oldest game in politics: "You scratch my back, and I'll scratch yours."

The betrayal of the south occurred in the senate. The house had passed various bills which would have limited the jurisdiction of the supreme court in certain types of cases, which congress has a right to do under the constitution. Among them were several measures dealing with communist subversion and passport control, and with steps to prevent confessed criminals from escaping punishment through technicalities.

It was in the senate that the death blow was inflicted, largely by the efforts of a Democratic senator who comes from the south but who, through his position of leadership, was able to thwart the will of his fellow southerners.

Blow to Nation
At the same time a serious blow was also dealt to the national interest, because the battle against communism and subversion is by no means sectional but affects the entire national and international situation.

Just what Lyndon Johnson's true motive was in sponsoring the death of so many bills desired by his southern colleagues set off quite a lot of conjecturing in the press galleries at the capitol. Some observers suggested that perhaps the majority leader is an insistence now that he thought he was impressing behavior has encouraged rather the labor-union leaders and/or than discouraged the idea. Some of the big pressure groups on the so-called liberal side that he is a moderate, and that they had better give some thought to him as a presidential possibility and will less to Sen. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

The Texas senator has been declaring right along that he is not a presidential candidate, but around the capitol there is a presidential nominee, there isn't any reason why a southerner shouldn't aspire to be a presidential nominee, but the big question mark now is what are Sen. Johnson's real convictions and will he be able to square himself with the south, which hitherto has looked kindly on making him a presidential nominee. (Copyright, 1958)

Life of Fire Lookout Man Offers Ample Time to Think

Blairmore, Alta. — Bill Clarke spends his summers alone in a one-room, glass-enclosed cabin atop the Livingstone range of the Canadian Rockies, 8,000 feet above sea level. A fire lookout man, he surveys 800 million board feet of potential lumber.

Life in a fire lookout, he says, may be lonely but it gives a man peace of mind and time to think as well as a responsibility that could save valuable timber and wild life. Still, the highlight of his existence comes every two weeks when supplies and mail are hauled in by jeep over a narrow trail.

Clarke's main occupation is watching and that sometimes gets tedious. But if a wisp of smoke is spotted his radioed alarm can start a ranger crew heading for the source in a matter of seconds.

Determining the source is Clarke's job, and he depends largely on a detailed map of the area surrounded by a 360-degree compass ring.

Once the fire is spotted on the map, Clarke uses panoramic photographs of the area as well as numerous smaller outbreaks. One to get a more accurate fix, difficulty he encounters is fog, for then radioes complete in which sometimes is so bad formation, including the that visibility is reduced to source, the size and shape of nothing and the cabin seems the fire to the ranger station, to be sitting on an "endless expanse of cotton balling."

Once the rangers are under way, Clarke keeps them on the beam and guides them to the fire by portable radio-telephone. In four seasons of lookout work, he has reported three away.

Irresponsibility

Congress will pass no labor reform legislation this year. The Kennedy-Ives bill, which the Senate passed overwhelmingly, died in the House under what police reporters used to like to call "mysterious circumstances."

Basically what happened is that both sides decided they could get more political mileage out of no bill than out of any bill that could be passed. It is pretty obvious that once the Kennedy-Ives bill had passed the Senate the Republicans became alarmed lest the Democrats (who control Congress) get any credit for action in this field, while at the same time the Democrats took another look over their shoulders and decided they had better not go into the fall campaign with the slightest taint of anti-laborism attaching to them.

House Speaker Rayburn called up the bill in the closing days of the session under a rule requiring a two-thirds vote for passage, and barring all amendments. That did the trick. The bill needed amending, as President Eisenhower pointed out rather belatedly the next day, and bringing it up under those conditions meant that the Republicans and their southern Democratic allies would have a perfect excuse to vote it down. The canny Mr. Rayburn knew this well, and it is obvious the result was satisfactory to him.

So now the stage is set for a political battle in which each side will accuse the other of sabotaging labor reform. It will be a good fight; for essentially both sides will be right. Despite all the outcry about abuses in the labor-management field following the revelations before the McClellan committee, Congress is still very nervous about stepping on the toes of the labor leaders and a great many congressmen were looking for an out that would permit them to maintain a pose of righteousness yet not force them to vote for any real labor reform. This out was provided for many of them when the National Association of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce came roaring into the arena with a cry that the Kennedy-Ives bill was a "phony." This was only partially true — a few amendments would have made it a strong bill — and we suspect the NAM and the USCC also had politics on their minds. At any rate the extremism of their attack on the bill is what killed it.

All of which goes to prove the old adage that it is useless to try to get major reform legislation through Congress on a controversial topic in an election year. The working men and women who are being victimized by unscrupulous labor bosses and their confederates in management will have to take their lumps for another year because just about everybody who had anything to do with the labor bill after it passed the Senate showed complete irresponsibility.

New Uses for Farm Surpluses

The problem of disposing of farm surpluses has not been solved although we have spent years and billions of dollars in study and experimentation. Some of the methods of handling surpluses produced and of preventing further surpluses have been proved ineffective if not worthless. That is a gain only if we recognize the facts as they stand and seek more effective methods.

The indications are there are new huge crops of wheat and corn on the way and the usual problems of disposal. The Corn Industries Research Foundation, Inc., estimates that the new corn crop will exceed 3 billion bushels and that the carryover from last year's crop will total about 1.6 billion bushels. Thus there will be nearly 5 billion bushels of corn for the 1958-59 year, which is not only more than we can use but an all-time record for corn available for any one year. Next year's carryover is expected to run from 1.8 billion to 2 billion bushels. What is to be done with that?

Two years ago President Eisenhower struck out on an entirely new approach to the farm surplus problem by appointing a bipartisan committee on the increased use of agricultural products. The Corn Industries Research foundation offered its cooperation to the president's commission and suggested a number of research projects which it believed could increase greatly the non-food, industrial uses of corn. If even a fair part of the program succeeded it was estimated that as much as 300 to 400 million bushels of corn could be consumed annually for entirely new uses.

New legislation is before Congress which, if finally passed, will clear the way for an extensive research program in the industrial use of all surplus commodities.

In view of the failure of the various political programs in this field, the government can well afford to give more time and money to the search for new uses of the valuable products produced on the nation's farms. As an example of what can be done in finding uses for surplus products, the CIRF publication "Corn" discusses at length the use of corn in producing adhesives to be used in the packaging of foods. Corn products already are in use in hundreds of industrial processes and so the food packaging field is mentioned only as an example of what is possible.

Adhesives based on starch, mostly from corn, make up about half of all the adhesives used in packaging by manufacturers. The adhesives are a small but important part of packaging. A family of four pays about $352 per year for food packaging. Of this amount only $2.46 goes for adhesives but it is still an important outlet for surplus corn. The prospects are bright for much greater use in the future.

The foundation believes that the packaging industry will be greatly changed and expanded in the future. It sees "clusterpacks" of necessary food staples for single-unit family purchases at various intervals. There also may be more packaging of related items so that entire meals may be sold as a unit with a wide choice of menus. That this can be big business is suggested by the foundation's dream of the "prefabricated, frozen complete meal" which will replace present day kitchen equipment as "the can of soup has replaced the soup kettle."

More directly, packaging of meats could help the corn producers for the foundation suggests that meat packaging in the future may be by dip or sprayed-on films. The foundation points out that high amylose starch is definitely a possibility in the near future and it is known to have the film-forming attributes necessary for meat wrapping.

There are, of course, an endless number of possible uses for surplus farm products as interesting and important as those which have been suggested for corn. Some of the time, money and ingenuity that have been spent in making our farmers "production specialists" should now go into the important task of finding new uses for the products we can produce in such abundance.

There is no intention of quarreling here with the merit of the legislation that will increase the benefits of millions of persons.

It is the timing that is so obvious as to be almost vulgar, so obvious as to cause the fastidious to wonder whether it is really the "good politics" that the eager spenders in over-heated Washington imagine. Is not the elderly person on the social security payroll likely, if he has any pride at all, to scorn these cynical overtures, this crass bargaining for his vote?

This proposal had as much merit in January or February as it had in late summer. It had as much merit, indeed, a year ago. The cost of living has advanced since the last adjustments of benefit scales. But it is not the cost of living that prodded the Congress, but anxiety about the November ballot box. There may be a handful of social security beneficiaries, moreover, who remember the orthodox economic principles of their school days and who know that the mountainous prospective deficit meritedly contrived by this Congress will further inflate the currency and promptly erode away the pitiful increases in pensions voted by vote-hungry politicians.

Criticizes McCarthyites Who Found Magazine Article on Joe Upsetting

Editor Post-Crescent:

Apparently the "true believers" in our midst have decided that any attempt to objectively assess the career of the late Senator McCarthy is in essence an attempt to "smear his memory." The amount of heat generated by local McCarthyites over the Rovere article in Esquire certainly indicates that Joe's idolators are afraid of any commentary which does not present their hero as a knight in shining armor ready to do battle with the communist dragon.

When one considers the amount of friendly ink which the Wisconsin press spilled on Joe's behalf while he was faithfully serving the Texas oil and gas interests, it is difficult to understand why one article published in a magazine which sells for 60 cents a copy should cause the local McCarthyites to howl like stuck pigs. Could it be that they have doubts concerning their "martyr"? Me thinks they howl and protest too much.

The article in question was actually an attempt by the writer to discern just what it was that made Joe tick as a human being. Hundreds of articles of this nature have been written about historical personalities. And alas, Joe is now an historical personality. It is ridiculous to expect the late Senator McCarthy to be exempt from this interest by journalists and historians. On the other hand, perhaps Joe's friends prefer hero worship as a proper substitute for honest attempts to get at the truth.

Rovere's analysis of the character and personality of McCarthy may be wrong. I'm inclined to believe that his interpretation of McCarthy is about as true or accurate as we may ever get. The mere fact that Rovere's article may be wrong is not sufficient reason to express regrets over its publication as "Jocubus" did recently in the People's Forum. Unless, of course, McCarthy's friends are afraid of where free discussions of this nature may lead and as a result want as little of it as possible. The magazine rendered a service to American citizens interested in preventing demagogues of the McCarthy breed from attaining office of public trust. By publishing Richard Rovere's penetrating discussion of the decline of a clever rogue, Esquire has shown that it has faith in the ability of the average citizen to separate the true from the false concerning the career of Joe McCarthy.

It is pretty obvious that the fanatics who still revere Joe as a martyr due to his phoney fight against communism lack this faith which the editors of Esquire have in the American people. We shall continue to hear their squeals of anguish whenever their hero is discussed in terms which are not reverent. They shall continue to call for the presentation of only one side of the story concerning Joe McCarthy.

Fortunately, both sides will be presented. We are still living in a free nation. Robert E. Nordlander

Prior to that, Quayle is appearing in Israel as Moses in "The Firstborn," a prior Broadway assignment then goes to London to perform in Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

New Bell for 4th Ward School

79 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Aug. 30, 1879.

The mellifluous mellowness which has reverberated occasionally through our streets for the past few days proves to emanate from a bell now in Bobcock's Hardware store, but soon to be removed to the belfry of the Fourth Ward school-house. It is from the foundry of Menacey and Kimberly, Troy, N.Y., the best known and reliable bell founders. Its diameter is 31 inches;

It is not a large bell, by any means, but doubtless it contains sufficient metal to fulfill its mission as expressed by the motto upon it: "Discipulis Voco."

Personal Letters to Voters Just Gimmick

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The voters of Wisconsin can expect to hear a good deal as the weeks go on about the penchant of Sen. Proxmire for writing letters to people.

Wyngaard

Roland Steine, his Republican challenger, has already issued some complaints. There will be more. The subject is an interesting one, entirely aside from the culpability or lack thereof that may be supposed.

Letter writing is a standard device of those politicians who want to retain the affection of their constituents, and remain in their short memories. The Wisconsin political system has produced some prodigious letter writers. But, according to all accounts, Proxmire has set a new pace. Nobody writes more letters than the junior senator, according to a variety of reports on the subject that show an unusual unanimity.

Some of the complaining about his prowess is doubtless inspired by a secret envy of his energy in this department — as in others. Yet there are signs that the senator has carried the thing to lengths that may conceivably be hurtful to himself — because the very volume of his mail from Washington may cheapen the idea.

HOW IT GOES

These are games that the politician understands dably plays close to his vest. But the abundance of anecdotes about his letters and the circumstantial evidence are suggestive. Last fall after his election Proxmire wrote Wisconsin newspaper editors asking for subscriptions to their publications. That was a blunder, for a man who sets such store by his reputation for refusing gifts of value. But he corrected it. He is now paying for his papers.

But why should a legislator want all the newspapers, which he cannot possibly read, and which even his staff couldn't pretend to read? The impression is that he didn't intend to read them. He intended his clerks to scan them—for letter writing purposes. Thousands of Wisconsin citizens have had unsolicited letters from the senator, many times tied to incidents that surprised them. The birth of a child, the graduation of a daughter, the respond of Madison firemen to a fire call that got into the newspapers, these and other are excuses for a cordial note from Washington on the exalted stationery of U. S. senate committees. The presumption is that the recipient is flattered or awed, or both, and in any event, conscious of Proxmire's name and presence in the senate.

Yet there are some skeptics, who wonder whether the senator hasn't more important things to do. Sometimes in the flurry of mailing there are errors. The story has been told of two Milwaukee women who got letters from the senator regretting that he wasn't able to see them after they had seen him and talked with him.

OLD HABIT

There are complaints that Proxmire is culling obituary lists, in order to console survivors.

That might just be a part of the bitter bias of his opponents, but it recalls one of the famous legends of a politically apt Wisconsin sheriff who did precisely that. Each widow was told that she had lost a wonderful husband, and the sheriff a fine friend.

But perhaps the last word in political letter writing is suggested by another legend about a Wisconsin congressman—who continues to prosper politically—during World War II. As did many other members of the congress, this worthy got many letters from mothers whose sons had been called into the army about the food and other conditions in the training camps.

The congressman would dispatch to the complaining mother an ostensible carbon copy of a letter addressed to the commanding general of the camp, giving the officer unshirked denunciation, and demanding the boy's transfer to a more humane training center. As the congressman knew, each recruit normally was transferred soon, and quickly adapted himself to camp conditions. But what the solicitous mother never knew is that the original letter had not been posted.

Senatorial Hot Air Costs Money

From The Morris, Minn., Tribune

In the first three months of this session of Congress, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey took the floor oftener and spoke longer than any other member of Congress. He and three other Democrat Senators, Wayne Morse and Richard L. Neuberger of Oregon and a freshman, William Proxmire of Wisconsin, consumed more time than 45 other Senators combined. Observers noted that printing these oratorical williwaws in the Congressional Record at $81 per page had cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars that could be put to more prudent use.

Teacher Calls For Federal Schooling Urged as Counter to States Defying Court Integration Order

Milwaukee—An official of the American Federation of Teachers today suggested that the federal government provide schools where states do not have integrated schools.

Selma M. Borchardt, the AFT's Washington representative, made the suggestion in a speech at the federation convention.

She suggested that "we call upon the president of the United States to establish schools on federal property and call upon the proper authority to conduct such schools until the state provides for free public schools to be open for all entitled to attend."

"The 1954 unanimous decision of the United States Supreme court, holding that segregation in the public schools of our country is unconstitutional, is being defiantly ignored," she said.

"We as teachers are deeply concerned over this issue. First, we are alarmed over the widespread acceptance of organized civil disobedience—subversion of government, in fact."

"We also are disturbed by the moral and social significance of a movement which would deny the protection of our country's laws to citizens because of race or color."

Explorer satellites and sputniks. It apparently could be deadly to humans.

But the sweepers could clear a channel so humans could safely zoom off on space trips, Dr. S. Fred Singer of the University of Maryland told the International Astronautical federation, meeting here this week.

Natural Holes

Or space ships might escape it by taking off over the poles, where there are apparently natural holes in the belt, he continued. As another idea, space ships might be equipped with magnetic screens to fend off the radiation. All these schemes would avoid tremendously heavy lead shielding.

Calculating from Explorer findings, Singer said the radiation appears so intense that in three hours a person would get 100 roentgens—equivalent to a safe maximum dose for a whole lifetime.

The radiation band, he continued, probably stretches 40,000 miles high above the earth before it dwindles away. He put the maximum intensity at a height of 6,000 miles over the equator.

(The radiation band might even extend all the way to the moon, Dr. Fred Whipple, Smithsonian institution astronomer, told a reporter.)

Singer said the radiation appears thinner at higher latitudes and nonexistent at the poles. He theorizes it is made of protons—positively charged atomic particles—trapped in the earth's magnetic field.

30-foot Satellites

The space sweepers could be satellites, about 30 feet in diameter, circling the earth above the equator, and soaking up the protons faster than they are being formed.

One sweeper might cut the radiation to safe levels in about a year, or 12 sweepers could do it in a month, Singer theorized.

Mars and Venus and even the moon may have similar radiation bands around them, he added. Getting safely through them could also be a hazard.

the financial ability of a state. Simplifying administrative procedures for both the insurance and public assistance programs.

Earlier this year, Flemming told the senate finance committee he would recommend a veto of the house-passed bill, providing an increase of about $288 million yearly in federal grants for public assistance, was sent to Eisenhower.

But Flemming endorsed the social security provisions covering increases in benefits, taxes and the like.

In shaping the final product, now at the White House, congress cut the public assistance grants to the $196 million figure.

Now, in a new analysis of the legislation, the social security administration reportedly has estimated that changes in the old age and survivors insurance system would result in about a $25 million annual offset against the estimated increase in federal cost of the public assistance program.

That would reduce the net increase for public assistance to about $173 million a year.

Mississippi Voters Select Candidates

Jackson, Miss.—Mississippi voters cast ballots today for a U. S. senator and six members of the national house.

The only statewide issue to be decided in this Democratic primary is whether to simplify the process of amending the state's 69-year-old constitution.

State leaders say the proposal to amend the constitution would pave the way to strengthen state segregation laws.

Nomination in predominantly Democratic Mississippi is tantamount to election. No Republican has announced for any post.

Inquiry Resumed

A senate committee returned to its probe of the teamsters union today.

In advance of the senate hearing, rackets committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said this phase of the probe would center on what he called goon squad violence, misuse of funds and abuse of power in St. Louis area teamster affairs bossed by Harold Gibbons.

Kennedy said one of the leadoff witnesses would be Capt. Thomas Moran of the St. Louis police bombing, arson and union squad.

Gibbons, executive vice president of the teamsters union, holds top command of its operations in the St. Louis region. He also is top lieutenant to Hoffa.

Kennedy said he intends, before this part of the inquiry ends next week, to question Gibbons and Hoffa.

Monitors who sought to head off Hoffa's assumption of the presidency. In the compromise Hoffa was allowed to take over with the board as a watchdog over his activities.

Lists Questions

In his letter to Hoffa today, monitor Chairman O'Donoghue listed the following questions he wants Hoffa to answer in detail about his "anti-racketeering commission":

1. Is it proposed that the activities of the commission be limited to alleged "gangster domination" of the union? If not, precisely what types of conduct will fall within the commission's purview?
2. Is it proposed that the commission be established for a set term or will it be terminable at the discretion of the union?
3. Is it proposed that the commission will conduct hearings?
4. How, if at all, will the commission fit into the union's present system for the processing of individual complaints and appeals?
5. Is it proposed that the commission's recommendations be made public?
6. To what extent does the union propose to bind itself to abide by the recommendation of the commission?
7. How large a staff and

Rule by Law Only Hope for Peace, Attorneys Told

Los Angeles—Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers says, "the hydrogen bomb is a sobering reminder to all that nations can no longer afford to settle international disputes by resort to force."

"The rule of law now provides the only hope for future peace and security in the world," he told the American Bar association's 81st annual convention last night.

Rogers said the free world's most potent weapon is its dedication to "basic concepts of justice, morality, and the rule of law."

The attorney general offered implied criticism of state chief justices who, in convention Saturday at nearby Pasadena, adopted a resolution censuring the U. S. Supreme court.

The chief justices by a 36-8 vote accused the high court of usurping states' rights and of failure to exercise "the power of judicial self restraint."

While he made no direct mention of the censure resolution, Rogers said: "Sweeping generalizations and across-the-board public condemnation of the decisions of the courts—whether state or federal—are not in the best interests of the nation."

Nautilus Crew Enjoys Holiday on the Town

New York Welcome to Continue Wednesday With Traditional Ticker Tape Parade

New York—Officers and crew of the atomic submarine Nautilus enjoyed a holiday on the town today with their families and friends.

At the Brooklyn navy yard, one-fourth of the ship's complement of 12 officers and 97 men maintained a watch on the craft which crossed under the North Pole icecap to history.

The blue-black sub is berthed for dockside view by the public today and tomorrow. She cannot be boarded.

New York's 3-day welcome will continue tomorrow with the honor the city traditionally extends to conquering heroes—a ticker tape parade.

Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, controversial expert on nuclear ship propulsion and "father" of the Nautilus, will ride up lower Broadway with the sub's crew in full view of sidewalk crowds. In the lead car will be the Nautilus' skipper, Cmdr. William R. Anderson.

Mounted police, massed colors and marching servicemen and city firemen will precede 15 open cars carrying the Nautilus crew.

It will be officially "U.S.S. Nautilus day" here by proclamation of Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

On behalf of himself and the crew, Anderson will receive from Wagner the mayor's scroll for distinguished service at a stag luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Anderson and Rickover will receive bronze city medals. At the same time, Mrs. Wagner will be hostess at a luncheon honoring the wives of the crew.

The Nautilus will leave Thursday for her home base at New London, Conn.

During a news conference at the navy yard yesterday, Navy Secretary Thomas S. Gates, Jr., said the service never has been against promoting Rickover.

Rickover's promotion to vice admiral will come up eventually "in an orderly manner," Gates said.

Rickover is here as President Eisenhower's personal representative. The navy did not invite the 58-year-old admiral to earlier White House ceremonies in Washington celebrating the Nautilus' achievement.

GOP Cringes at Rockefeller's Win

Old Guard Disappointed With New York Governor Candidate

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE

Washington—For years the old-fashioned Republicans over the country have looked half in curiosity and half in deep disapproval upon the goings-on in their party in New York state.

They are a little like the farmer who may once visit an east side night club but will go away shaking his head and muttering thanks that no such establishment operates where he lives.

The "New York Republicans" ever since about 1940 have been the tail that wags the elephant. They, with their eastern-influenced and relatively liberal allies, have dominated five successive national party conventions.

Five times they have rejected the claims of the old guard and nominated presidential candidates from among so-called "modern" Republicans. These candidates have progressively joined much of what they could not lick—the internationalist, more-or-less welfare-state notions of the Democrats themselves.

Accelerated Pace Now, history is not merely repeating itself in New York. It is repeating itself at a highly accelerated pace.

Nelson Rockefeller's success in grasping the governor's nomination represents in some ways the most-unrehearsed defeat yet suffered by the old guard. Even the still-young "father" of New York Republicanism, Thomas E. Dewey, always had at least some political background and at least some professional understanding—if hardly any sympathy—toward the orthodox old-timers.

Rockefeller, however, has busied himself infinitely more with international and national problems than with the affairs of the Republican party. The old guard suspects he knows more about the plans of Pandit Nehru in India than he does about any Republican courthouse.

Most national politicians in both parties see Rockefeller as extremely unlikely to defeat the sitting Democratic governor, Averell Harriman. They consider this scion of the great, golden house of Rockefeller to have been given mainly the role of picking up the tab for running a campaign in New York in a tough, Democratic year.

All the same, the national old guard can find no adequate comfort in this. For, in the first place, Rockefeller might just conceivably win. If he did, he would overnight become a great power in the national Republican party. He probably would cast his weight on the side of public spending and the like.

Defeats Hall Moreover, even assuming Rockefeller after election day holds the distinction only of a defeated GOP nominee, an uncomfortable fact will yet remain.

This is that the "New York Republicans," far from showing any reconversion toward ancient GOP doctrine, plainly are moving farther away from it with each passing year.

Rockefeller, after all, defeated for the nomination a man with a considerable claim on all wings of the Republican party, Leonard W. Hall. "Len" was and is a pro, whereas Rockefeller is an unabashed amateur.

Hall had ably served President Eisenhower as chairman of the Republican National committee—a job for which

Reuss Says Request For Work at Horicon Marsh Being Studied

Washington — Rep. Henry Reuss (D-Wis) said Sunday the budget bureau has assured him that his request for $60,000 for building sub-impoundments at Horicon marsh will be given consideration.

The budget bureau said the request would get "every consideration" if the interior department includes such an item in its 1960 budget proposal. The budget bureau has the final say on financial requests by government departments.

Reuss recently wrote Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton and Budget Director Maurice Stans that $60,000 was "absolutely vital" in restoring the Wisconsin marsh to a waterfowl-producing refuge.

The Milwaukee Democrat said duck production at Horicon has dropped "practically to zero" because of water level control which he termed totally inadequate.

he has had, by the way, no excessive thanks from the White House. He was no beau ideal of the old guard. And if even he, who had no more than a tolerable connections with the old guard, could not make it in New York, this question is raised:

What possible Republican in any degree acceptable to them will be able to make it in the foreseeable future? (Copyright, 1958)

2 Teenagers Finish Long Bicycle Trip

Geenens Veterans After Third Annual Jaunt; Plan Another

Two Appleton boys are rapidly becoming veterans at long distance bicycle riding after finishing a 500-mile round trip Wednesday. This trip was the third annual one for Paul Geenen, 15, and his 13-year-old brother, Carl, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Geenen, 1620 N. Morrison street. Their first trip was to Terry Andrae state park near Two Rivers, about 70 miles from Appleton, and the second to Peninsula state park. Their most recent and most ambitious one, which they began Aug. 10, took them past Prairie du Chien and across the Mississippi river into Iowa.

All of the trips, Carl says, have been taken because the boys wanted "thrill and adventure."

Trip Itinerary

The itinerary for this trip included scenic spots like Green Lake, Rocky Arbor roadside park near Wisconsin Dells, Tower Hill state park on the Wisconsin river near Spring Green and Wyalusing state park about 11 miles from Prairie du Chien, Paul said as he consulted a road map kept under the padded seat on his bike for the whole trip. The boys traveled about 60 miles a day, starting at 7 or 7:30 and pulling in about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The trip was an outdoor one completely since they slept in state parks.

They were their own cooks for a week and a half, using a small alcohol stove and utensils which they took along and food bought along the way. The cost for the trip was held to $35. "And that's everything," Paul added emphatically.

Among the most eventful happenings were the times of bike trouble.

Flat Tire "Carl got a flat near Prairie du Chien," Paul explained calmly, "but a kind man—with tools—helped us."

"At Winneconne my bike fell apart. Well, we got it fixed now, but the ball bearings wore out in front due to lack of lubrication and I traveled home without them."

The boys' middle-weight bikes are the same except for age and color. Paul's, the older of the two, now registers bike rides totalling 3,474.5 miles.

The Geenen boys plan more trips. But just where they'll go, they can't say, for after planning and reading road maps, they usually decide on a destination about a week before they leave.

Perkins' Pet Parakeet Panics, Police Prowl, Find Puss Through Pane

Winston - Salem, N. C. — "Help! Murder! Police!" twittered the parakeet in frantic chirps and trills.

The R. L. Perkins family, roused at 2 o'clock in the morning, heard strange noises just outside a bedroom window.

They called police who closed in stealthily to search for a prowler. They found one—a big, hungry cat perched on a stack of lumber, licking his chops at the parakeet through the window.

Recluse Kills Businessman In Gun Battle

Man Says Someone Out to Get Him; Held In Mental Hospital

Edmonton, Alta. — Jim Alix, a 65-year-old recluse who said someone was out to get him, was charged with murder Sunday night after killing a prominent businessman and wounding a fire chief in a 5-hour gun battle. Alix was held in a mental hospital for observation.

Police said the bearded Alix first fired with a rifle for no apparent reason at a nearby parked car and passersby, then took cover in a trench system he had dug in front of the converted boxcar in which he lived.

Before authorities drove Alix from his fortification, Richard Butler, 44, a businessman and councilman of suburban Jasper Place, was killed by two bullets in the chest. Fire Chief Barney Waygood was wounded in the ribs when he tried to rout Alix with a hose.

Alix himself was hit once with a bullet passing through his arm and creasing his back. Police finally drove him from his trenches with a bulldozer and captured him, two rifles and a shotgun. The old man told the police he had dug the trenches so he could shoot at people.

Neighbors said Alix had told them Saturday somebody was out to get him. They described him as quiet with "queer ideas" and said he began digging his trench network when he moved into the boxcar 11 years ago.

Police said they had confiscated several rifles from Alix several years ago.

Everlys' 'Bird Dog' Still Top Record in Fox Cities

Italian Melody Sweeps Nation; In 2nd Place Here

BY DICK DISC

As far as the Fox Cities go, the young Everly brothers are tops with their "Bird Dog" song. It has taken the No. 1 spot three weeks ago, last week and this week.

It's also a popular tune across the nation, but down on the list a little. The haunting Italian melody sung by Domenico Madugno is first choice nationally and in second place in these parts. This one is the "Nel Blu Dipinto Di Blu" that teenagers are softly singing in Italian just as if the words come naturally.

"Patricia," the nation's No. 2 tune this week doesn't even show on the Fox Cities' top 10, but the smash hit "Ram Rod" makes its first appearance on local charts in ninth place.

Here are the top 10 tunes in the Fox Cities:

1. "Bird Dog" by the Everly brothers.
2. "Nel Blu Dipinto Di Blu" by Domenico Madugno.
3. "Susie Darlin'" by Robert Luke.
4. "Just a Dream" by Jimmy Clanton.
5. "Little Star" by the Elegants.
6. "King Creole" by Elvis Presley.
7. "Willie and the Hand Jive" by the Johnny Otis Show.

8. "Born Too Late" by the Pony Tails.

9. "Ram Rod" by Duane Eddy.

10. "Everybody Loves a Lover" by Doris Day.

In the new album spotlight: "My Heart Sings" by Polly Bergen, a varied collection of tunes sung with warmth and a great deal of decision by Miss Bergen. "Just One of Those Things", "The Lady is a Tramp" are among the numbers.

"Bobby Darin" by Darin is a new EP containing his two hits and two other songs: "I Can't Go On" and "Million Dollar Baby."

The biggest album around the nation is Van Cliburn's "Piano Concerto." Popular around here are the Conniff albums and Pat Boone's "Stardust."

In the new tune department: "The Shadow Knows" by the Coasters. An eerie but rocking novelty based on the idea that whatever you do the shadow knows.

"The Day I Died" by the Playmates. A morbid lyric backed up by a good melody with a driving beat. A good record.

"Pussy Cat" by the Ames brothers. Bright and bouncy would best describe this folk tune with the cutie lyrics.

"The Loudspeaker Bird" by Rosemary Clooney. Another novelty and the first record put out by Miss Clooney in quite a spell.

"Summertime, Summertime" by the Jamies. Voices blending in over other voices make this an interesting record for listening.

Miniature Automobile Gets Stolen Car Alarm

New York — (U) — A police alarm went out Thursday for a stolen car. Description: "Red, four and one-half feet long, five m.p.h. speed."

The car, a snazzy, electrically-operated model, disappeared from the miniature garage of 7-year-old Bruce Winters. It was a present from his folks after he had his tonsils taken out.

Police weren't sure the regular stolen-car alarm was called for. But a look at the owner convinced them.

Their perfect phrasing and diction practically make the printed libretto unnecessary, which is a blessing, since the one that London includes in the 2-record album fails to take into account the several passages that have been omitted in the interest of saving space.

The only editing done in-

Different Cast

Delightfully Mythical Mikado Rules Again in New Recording

BY HUGH MULLIGAN
AF Newsfeatures Writer

After more than 70 years, the mythical town of Titipu remains as droll and delightful as the day W. S. Gilbert and Arthur Sullivan created it as the setting for their enchanting operetta, "The Mikado."

Legend hath it that a Japanese sword fell one day from the wall in Gilbert's study and inspired the tale of a benevolent Mikado who, in the interests of monogamy, decreed that all young men:

"Who flirted, leered or winked, unless connubially linked, should henceforth be beheaded."

Regarded by many as Gilbert and Sullivan's greatest work, "The Mikado" has been excellently recorded — once again by London Records with the D'Oyly Carte company and the New Symphony orchestra under the baton of Isidore Godfrey.

With the exception of Alan Styler, who repeats his role as PishTush, the cast is an entirely different one from the London recording of eight years ago and, in some respects, not as good.

Timid Executioner

Peter Pratt makes an amusingly timid lord high executioner, but lacks the sparkle and zany charm of Martyn Green, who for many years was identified with the role and sang it in the original London recording.

Thomas Round and Jean Hindmarsh are an appealing pair of chopping block-crossed lovers; Beryl Dixon is a properly piquant Petti-Sing and Kenneth Sandford a most grandiloquent Pooch-Bah, but Donald Adams and Ann Drummond Grant, as the Mikado and his daughter-in-law-elect, do not measure up to their predecessors in the original recording.

The differences in cast, however, do not keep the new version from being overwhelmingly superior to every previous recording. The chorus and orchestra, in particular, never sounded better and seem to have taken every advantage of the many technical hi fi gains made in recent years.

Successful wedding of classics and jazz. The flip side features a symphonic suite of the music from Gershwin's opera "Porgy and Bess," arranged by Robert Russell Bennett, one of the most gifted arrangers in the business.

Why the lady novelist instead of the prohibitionist? Perhaps a feetotaler has got himself elected to the board of London Records.

Other Production

Practically all that has been said of "The Mikado" can apply equally well to London's new edition of "The Pirates of Penzance," which also makes up in brilliant choral and orchestral work the few minor shortcomings in casting.

Savoyards everywhere will thrill to Jean Hindmarsh's soaring soprano in the lilting "Poor Wandering One" love song of the first act and again in the famous "Ah, Leave Me Not to Pine Alone" number in the second act. These two arias alone give the new "Pirates" an edge over all others.

Two other major recordings out this month are worthy of mention:

Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition" (RCA Victor), sensitively performed by Fritz Reiner and the Chicago Symphony orchestra and given the full hi fi treatment.

Gershwin's "An American in Paris" (Mercury) with Antal Dorati and the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra joyously presiding over the first

Men Unwilling To Give Selves In God's Work

Minister Offers Views at Evening Pastors' Session

Many Christians suffer from the complex of being a special case and this complex has made ministers and laymen alike unwilling to burn themselves out in doing the will and work of God.

That was the contention Monday night of Dr. Douglass V. Steere, a professor of philosophy at Haverford college, Haverford, Pa., and honorary doctor of divinity at Lawrence college. He spoke during the first evening worship service at the Wisconsin Area Pastors' school currently being held at First Methodist church.

But despite this unwillingness "the challenge of the Christian faith is to lose one's self in the service of all mankind," he contended.

About 185 Methodist clergymen from throughout the state are registered for the annual sessions which close with the noon meal Friday.

The Rev. Francis E. Kearns, Wauwatosa, dean of the school, called upon clergymen to make a place in busy schedules for times of quiet and meditation. He pointed out an improved ministry would be achieved by such a renewal of inner spiritual resources.

Because of the illness of Dr. Albert C. Outler, scheduled to teach a course on "The Christian Sacraments in the Methodist church, the Rev. Morgan Edwards, pastor of First Methodist church, Pasadena, Calif., will lecture in his place.

The Rev. Mr. Edwards

taught for 10 years in the Southern California School of Theology and continues there as a visiting lecturer. Besides conducting workshops for the ministers, he will speak at the 8 o'clock public worship service Thursday evening.

Other Speakers

Speaking at 8 o'clock tonight will be Dr. George D. Kelsey, professor of Christian ethics at Drew university, Madison, N.J., and Wednesday's evening speaker will be Bishop Noland Bailey Harmon, bishop of the Charlotte area of the Methodist church since 1956.

Dr. Kelsey, who also lectured Monday afternoon, stated the "morality of mores is the morality of custom." He pointed out many attitudes in society today with reference to Sunday observances, treatment of parents in the home, marriage and divorce and amusements can be traced directly to the influence of past mores.

"The case for religion to day then becomes the case of the influence which religion

Odd Sounds Come Over Tape Recorder

Noel, Va. — Charles E. Owen, Jr., can sit in his home here in the pine woods of Hanover county and listen to the world's strange sounds and many of its voices.

Owen is a state highway department engineer. But he is also secretary of the Voicependence club whose members in 44 states and some foreign countries correspond by tape recordings.

Hence the strange sounds—sounds of night in a South African jungle; a fish bumping the diving helmet of a man walking along a lake bottom; can effect on these mores in order to bring about change which is in harmony with the Christian religion."

railroad sounds from all over the world; western saddle songs sung by an Irishman born in Scotland; a drill cutting into a tooth in a New York dentist's office.

The offbeat sounds make up only a small part of the tape correspondence. Mainly the mail brings tapes containing chit-chat, serious discussion, music of all kinds and occasional skills.

A good many of the 1,200 members of the club are blind or otherwise physically handicapped. Owen estimates the figure at 15 to 20 per cent.

Owen and his wife, Melva, are both electronic sound buffs and manage to devote some 80 hours a week between them to the club.

They handle membership, work of the club and publish its directory and magazine, a chatty quarterly called the Voicependent. Owen, 43, estimates he and his wife have swapped 3,600 tapes with members all over the world.

Women Discuss Sheet, Blanket Preferences

Give Vote of Confidence to Colored, Fitted Sheets, Electric Blankets

Women are just as fussy about their sheets and blankets as they are about their lingerie.

Proper sheets and blankets were carefully scrutinized by women delegates to the Congress On Better Living in Washington, D.C., and a number of factors — color, cottons, wools, and synthetics — were considered in efforts to determine what the individual housewife prefers in bedding.

Delegates voted overwhelmingly in favor of colored sheets, but cited a variety of reasons. One said she liked colored sheets to distinguish different beds in her house. Another said she keeps the single sheets in solid colors and the double sheets in stripes.

Geographical location or type of water can often dictate whether colors or white are best. Said one delegate: "Colored sheets are the only thing that I can buy. We have rusty water. If you buy white, they aren't white long."

Not As Fresh-Looking

Colored sheets last every bit as long as white sheets but don't seem as fresh-looking after washing and hanging, claimed delegates. Some questioned whether the extra expense of colored sheets is worth it. Others praised the "warmth" imparted by colored sheets and thought that feature made up for increased cost.

Delegates were practically unanimous in liking fitted sheets. One pointed out that fitted sheets are admirably suited for children's beds "because the children turn and squirm so much, and the sheets stay better." Some prefer them because it eliminates ironing the bottom sheets.

But there were complaints about a too-tight fit and lack of adaptability to various sized beds. Delegates suggested that an insert of elastic, knitted corners or adoption of adjustable snaps would help.

The women assumed a negative attitude toward nylon sheets, although one-fourth of them said they had never tried them. Criticized were the "feel" of nylon sheeting and yellowing. Delegates remarked, "they slide off the bed," "you can see through the pillow case," "static electricity," and "not crisp, too soft."

The homemakers voted 3 to 1 in favor of electric blankets, but the majority had no experience with them.

Devotees said they preferred dual rather than single control.

Moth-proofed wool blankets and those made with synthetic fibers were almost equally favored, but wool blankets retained a small edge. Said one: "I like synthetics because of the moth problem. Anything that moths can eat has to go." Easy washing of synthetics was highly praised, especially where children are concerned

To Your Good Health

Molner Lists 7 Health Points In Before-School Check-Ups

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

There are seven particular things (other than eyesight and hearing) to keep in mind when you are having your youngster checked before the school term starts.

1 — Is there any handicap that should require a limit in work or play? The heart, of course, certainly should be examined, and rheumatic fever is such a dangerous affliction as regards the heart, that this alone should be worth a once-a-year physical examination. Rheumatic fever may give clear warning of its presence, but sometimes it attacks mildly yet leaves heart damage after an attack that didn't seem like much except a period of listlessness and crossness on the child's part.

2 — Is there any condition which is only starting, but needs treatment early? (Diabetes, asthma, poor tonsils or adenoids, skin diseases, allergies are just samples of things to which the doctor will readily detect clues by even a rather simple examination).

3 — Are there conditions which can be corrected easily if you start early? By this I mean, among others, such things as foot defects, faults in posture, speech defects which you may not recognize as such because they developed slowly, and so on.

Nutrition Problems

4 — Sometimes a child gradually slips into poor eating habits, and isn't getting the kinds of food he should have. Sheer undernourishment, rickets and such things aren't common, but the before-school examination is a good time to take stock and see that our youngsters haven't fallen into a habit of not drinking their milk, or of not getting enough protein, or fruit and vegetables.

5 — This isn't really a separate art of an examination, but I think it's worth mentioning. Make the examination, especially the first an educational experience. At least one parent should be present and the doctor's suggestions and comments will be valuable. The child probably won't pay much attention — but you will.

6 — Just keep in mind that a dental examination also is part of getting a child ready for school! Cavities, cleaning and recording condition will be the common aspects. But sometimes teeth will not be coming in properly, are crowded or uneven. Find it out early.

Vaccinations

7 — Most children, I fondly hope, get their first shots early in the first year of life. If not — well, it's never too late to start! Periodic booster shots are a must. I can't think of a vaccination that remains effective forever. A child vaccinated against smallpox as a baby, needs a booster at school age, and every five or six years after that. Ditto for diphtheria, tetanus (lockjaw) and whooping cough, for the first-grade age. Diphtheria and tetanus boosters should be given every three to five years until the high school years.

Heavy Nosebleeds

"Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 16, has heavy nosebleeds once in awhile. Will you tell me if that is anything to worry about?" — Mrs. R. V.

Worry? I'd say no. But investigate? Yes. Nosebleeds except from a punch in the nose, or some severe irritation, by which I mean something like a long, hard cold, are not normal. Minor ulceration is one cause of such nosebleeds, and those usually are quite readily cleared up by cautery. I wouldn't waste any time worrying, but I would have the condition looked after.

LET ME TELL YOU THE SECRET OF POST-CRESCENT WANT ADS

The very first advertisement ever to appear in an American newspaper was one that was born of the need of a private citizen in the Massachusetts colony. It was a "Want Ad."

The little ads that appear on the Classified ad pages of the Post-Crescent each day are mostly born of the needs of private individuals right here in the Fox Cities. These little ads represent the needs of your friends and neighbors to buy, sell, find, rent, hire or trade.

But these little ads serve not only the people who place them. They perform to the service of the readers too, because people who read the ads also have a need. They are hoping to buy, rent, trade, or find something.

Want Ads bring together people who can deal with each other to a mutual benefit. And Want Ads enable this to be accomplished at a very low cost to the individuals involved.

This is the Secret of the Want Ads: that they provide the only means of satisfying many human wants and needs so quickly and at such low cost.

America's oldest form of advertising is available to you as a private individual, or as a business person. Trained ad takers are available to help you word and place your ad, or to provide you with further information on how Want Ads can work for you.

Empire Line Dominates

Foreign fashion photos released today reveal that it's all a matter of the waistline—which has edged up under the bust to imitate the styles of the empire period. Yves Saint Laurent of the house of Dior, in extreme left photo, contrasts the high waist with fluffed skirts. The evening dress in pink faille is called "Zair."

At right, Michael Goma, a fashion newcomer in Paris, shows a short evening dress in red lace. The shoulderless frock dips to three large rear flounces. Below are cold weather fashions by Balmain and Guy LaRoche. At left, Balmain's face-framing black and white wool tartan dress coat is trimmed with black African astrakhan. African astrakhan trim is also used by LaRoche of Paris for his dress and jacket in hazel nut checked wool. Hats are to match in both ensembles.

European Fashions Style Artists Display Wares

BY NADEANE WALKER

Paris — Jump on the fashion merry-go-round; here we go again.

The waistline is up, the neckline is down. Skirts are cut off at the knee, except for Dior's, which are down to mid-calf.

All this you can see for yourself today, with permission of the fashion creators, who insist on giving buyers and manufacturers a three-week head start on copyists and the curious public.

Photos Released Today Fashion writers were allowed to describe the new styles after openings three weeks ago, but pictures could not be published until today.

Do these new fashion photos make you feel outmoded? It's all a matter of the waistline, which has migrated right up under the bust, to imitate the styles Empress Josephine wore in the days of Napoleon's empire.

May be Fad But before you go overboard for the Empire line, be forewarned; it has all the earmarks of a short-lived fad. The dressmakers—American, Italian, English and French—have all gone in for it a bit too heavily and unanimously. There's no surer way to run a new fashion quickly into the ground, and buyers were already grumbling before the last show ended.

Here are other news notes of the season, in case your memory needs refreshing.

Black Top Color Black is the leading color. Bright shades come in mostly for after-dark occasions. Gold lame, red, rosy pink, mauves, blues and green lead the spectrum.

Loosely woven mohair wool, satiny surfaced or tweedy wools for daytime give way to sumptuous all-over embroideries, satins and laces for evening. Fur trimmings abound—sable if you can afford it, or mink will do.

Big Collars a Must Big collars are practically a trademark. They provide top width for Cardin's "Mushroom" line, and are almost capes in some Dior versions.

Rounded or scoop necklines are just about as low as they can go. But some bare-bosomed evening fashions notably Dior's modestly cover up the arms with long sleeves. Backs are often bare to the waist.

"Mushroom" Hats Dark stockings, black at Lanvin Castillo, creole brown at Desses are the darling of the moment. Lanvin even brings back stocking clocks for a naughty look, and achieves a shocking contrast with black stockings and pastel shoes.

Most popular hats to go with the new dresses are tall, fezzes or puff-crowned mushrooms. Some look like cabbage heads or feathery fright wigs.

In Good Taste House Guest Need Not be Invited Out

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: If a couple have a house guest (in this instance my mother-in-law), and they are invited out to dinner at the house of a friend who met her once at my house, is it proper to invite her to dinner too? Is it rude to omit the house guest when inviting the couple? The hostess and her guests would naturally be of a different generation as they are much younger people than my mother-in-law. I would appreciate your opinion regarding the correct procedure in this situation.

Answer: It would not be rude to invite you to dinner without your mother-in-law. In fact it would be only a very intimate friend who would out of kindness invite one older person to a dinner of much younger people.

Dear Mrs. Post: My best girl friend is going to be married soon and I am planning on giving her a bridal shower. Her mother and father are divorced and her father has remarried. She is on very friendly terms with her stepmother and often stays with her father and stepmother. Would it be proper to invite

Deceitful Hubby Makes Life Miserable Protecting Mama

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: Some people say you make up letters to put in your column. Why you'd want to make anything up when you get letters like this one, I will never know. My husband was divorced from his first wife eight years ago. Divorce is against his religion so he never told his mother. We've been married five years and have two lovely children. His mother thinks I'm his first wife and knows nothing of the children. He claims he can't tell her because it would break her heart.

They exchange letters once a month and he phones her every Christmas. Now he wants to go visit her without me and the children. I say this is wrong. Please tell us what you think.—H I D D E N WIFE

You haven't got two children, Lady—you've got three. That husband of yours is a little boy who's afraid of his mama.

Of course he should tell his mother about you and his children. This should have been done from the outset. ("Oh what a tangled web we weave when first we practice to deceive.")

Perhaps the sight of her grandchildren will make up for the years of deception. Insist on taking this trip and include the youngsters. Enlist the help of your clergyman if necessary. Your husband will feel greatly relieved when he puts an end to this monstrous lie.

DEAR ANN: I'm 22 and my boy friend is 26. We got engaged two weeks ago. He gave me a nice ring and I was very happy—until he said "Don't mention this to my mother. I haven't told her yet."

I don't know if he is ashamed of me or what. Ann, I don't know what to do and would appreciate some advice right away.—Y.T.H.

Dear Y.T.H.: Shake hands with the lady in the letter above. You've both drawn the same type of lemon.

Don't wait until you have a full house before demanding a new deal. Tell your fiancé to inform his mother at once or give back the ring.

Use Practical Furniture for Decoration

For the room that asks for more elegance and decoration, and more storage room, too, provide both with the same piece of furniture. The decorated cabinet becomes an outstanding fashion for more reasons than one, and more styles and types than ever will be seen as new furniture comes into the stores.

Unusual shapes, the decorative use of wood grains and delicate marquetry and striking hardware all create distinction for the new cabinets. Classic shape at upper left is derived from the Italian of the early 19th century, and contrasts narrow inlays of walnut in walnut quite differently from the rosewood inlay in walnut of the straight-lined cabinet below it. A travertine top and striking natural wood grain pulls the unusually detailed pulls enrich the cabinet at lower left, which has a Chinese flair also seen in the modern version of a classic Chinese cabinet at right. The tall cabinet is trimmed with rattan and brass and is fitted inside for hi-fi components. (Cabinets at left, Mount Airy, Heritage and Heritage. At right, McGuire.)

Our Children

Keep Teacher Informed, Needs to Know Student

BY ANGELO PATRI

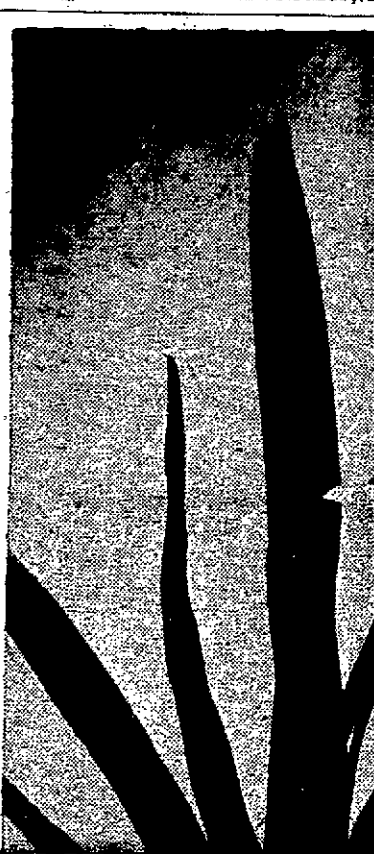

The education of a child is a partnership between the home and the school. One side alone cannot do the work to the full and proper value. There must be give and take on both sides—in a spirit of mutual interest.

When entering a child for the first time in a school the parent should see the teacher who will have the child in her class and tell her anything that is peculiar to the child. If he seems to have a hearing defect—if his eyes are not just perfect—tell her about it and what has been the home practice concerning it.

If the child has had a recent illness, tell the teacher about it and about any care he is still receiving. If he is likely to stammer when spoken to suddenly, say so. If he has been trained to go to the toilet at a set time, tell the teacher. Such information aids the teacher in managing each child according to his needs and that smooths the way for the child and makes his school life happier.

The first day in school is hard on a little one even when he has looked forward to it for a long time. The sudden separation from his mother, from his home and its routine, can be a shock to a child. For some it is severe. In my experience the best way to bridge the gap between child and mother is the quick definite one of "Here is your classroom and your teacher. I'll meet you again at noontime."

Good-bye," and Go! When a mother lingers, cries, says many good-byes, her emotional disturbance is projected on to the child and he will refuse to be parted from his mother, stand.

African Species of Iris Easy to Grow House Plant

By Katherine B. Walker

Iris have long been one of my favorite outdoor garden plants, probably because they require so little care and always look so trim and neat. Indoors, the Morea and the Neomaria (Marica), African representatives of the Iris family, are equally favored. Although the blossoms of these tender irises are short-lived, lasting only a day or two, they are produced abundantly and they are extraordinarily beautiful. Even when not in flower, these plants are attractive as foliage specimens, and best of all, they are one of the easiest of all house plants to grow.

Perhaps you know Neomaria as the Apostles plant, or the Twelve Apostles. Neomaria nortiana is usually known as the Walking-Iris, from the manner in which the leaf-like flower-scapes bearing baby plants arch over to take root a short distance from the parent. Neomarias have very smooth, almost glossy leaves, and as noted above, a leaf-like flower-scape. The Moreas have a rather rough, sometimes hairy leaf, and the flower-scapes are slender, round stalks. The blossoms of both resemble miniature iris.

Flowers of N. nortiana have white outer petals marked with brown at the base, and inner petals tipped with violet but with striped yellow and brown bases.

N. gracilis has white outer petals, with the inner ones blue with brown bases.

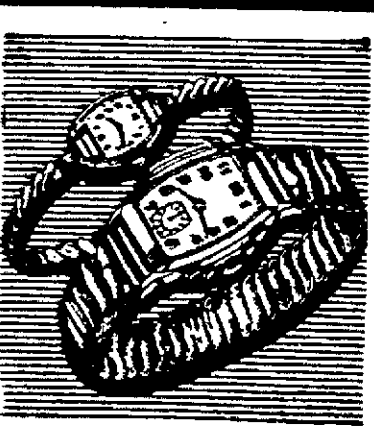

Morea bicolor has flowers up to two inches across, a beautiful yellow with brown speckles on the inner petals and on the base of the outer ones; this is not so widely available.

Moreas like a rather cool temperature, rich soil, bright light or full sun, and moderate watering.

During the resting period, which usually occurs after the formation of the new plants, reduce the amount of water given and place in a slightly cooler spot than normal.

They remain evergreen during their dormancy. Neomarias prefer a warmer temperature, diffused sunlight, and need to be kept constantly moist. Propagation of these indoor irises is by the little plantlets which form at the same point on the scapes which produce flowers. Don't remove faded blossoms or you may damage the embryo plantlets.

Pleasing Premier

Best Saved Until Last at Peninsula Music Festival

BY RUSS WIDOE

Post-Crescent News Service

Thor Johnson, consciously or otherwise, saved the best until last at the Peninsula Music festival. Sunday afternoon was a rousing affair that left the audience with a happy closing memory of the sixth annual festival at Fish Creek.

I have been anxiously waiting for some significant new composition for this season. After the first few bars of Giannini's "Suite from Incidental Music to 'Love's Labour's Lost,'" I knew I hadn't waited in vain.

Important Premiere

This work is one of the most important premieres ever offered at Gibraltar High school auditorium. It is well knit, tuneful, cleverly orchestrated, colorful in harmony, full of wit. In short it is great music and evidence that America does have a first class composer in the person of Vittorio Giannini.

Sidney Harth provided the other thrilling experience at the Sunday concert. Harth tackled the Wieniawski concerto for violin and orchestra. The ovation given at the end of the performance was deserved. His intonation, technical skill, phrasing, and fire made a musical composition out of what might become a mere show of dexterity in the hands of one less talented.

The lovely Symphony in C Major by Bizet completed the Sunday performance.

Saturday night's program was varied in mood and period. It ranged from a lively presentation of two movements of the Bach Brandenburg Concerto No. 3, to Ralph Vaughan Williams' Overture from the Aristophanic Suite, "The Wasps." Mr. Estanislao returned to the platform for a farewell appearance. His rendition of selections by Ravel had depth and understanding.

The premiere of Icelandic composer Thorarinsson's song cycle was less successful. The three songs, using poems of Christina Rossetti, requires an understanding and interpretation that the Philippine baritone couldn't muster. His "Vision Fugitive" from the opera "Herodiade" also left much to be desired. The Massenet work is written in the grand manner and requires a bigger voice than that of Mr. Estanislao.

Little Known Work An early American composer Rohrer completed the Saturday concert. It was interesting as a museum piece. The flavor might be described as sugar coated Mozart.

Another year has passed and we must put the closed sign up on the only significant professional musical effort in Wisconsin. I still feel that this Peninsula Music festival is much more important than local interest would indicate. I also believe that we should be making some effort to make it grow more and more significant. Next year I hope the Peninsula festival can become the Northwestern Wisconsin festival not in only name but in spirit.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Skin Conditioning Treatment

Is your skin showing the withering effect of summer sun, wind and heat? It's dry, flaking? If so that treatment will bring back the natural bloom:

To a cleansed face, apply a generous amount of skin oil or cream.

Wring out a towel in hot water and press it to your face. Repeat several times.

Using the fingertips of both hands, briskly "spank" your face. Be sure careful not to pull the skin; work from the chin upward and move your fingers as though playing the piano.

Remove excess oil with cleansing tissue. Pat on chilled witch hazel or cold water and let air dry.

At this point your skin will have lots of wither. But it will positively flower, if you take the treatment weekly for a month.

Fathers Go Back to College Days When Buying Son's Outfit This Fall

It's getting so fathers taking their sons in for a college outfit suffer more from nostalgia than shopping fatigue. Salesmen say the feel of the '20s is so strong sometimes fathers go glassy-eyed and look for raccoon coats. And, if you think this is nonsense, consider for a moment that one of the items this fall is a jacket with a raccoon collar—a lessening of raccoon may be one sign of progress after all.

The Ivy League look is top fashion today, and it's classic conservatism in dress. With the look, flannels and tweeds form the backbone of the college man's wardrobe, with two or three suits standard equipment. Basic interest today is formed by stripes, with tweedy effects next in line.

Sport coats are becoming more tweedy after an inundation of stripes over the last several years. All tones are on the dark side, especially in slacks where checks are making a comeback, although stripes are still No. 1. Heather effects are coming in strong, and most slacks are soft finish, not the hard finish of a gabardine.

In blazers, those casual coats with their metal buttons, only the navy blue standard remains strong and in good taste anywhere.

Topcoats are tweeds and Shetlands, much the same as last year. One new trend is the set-in sleeve rather than the raglan, which was the only sleeve type for years. The set-in is a boxier type of tailoring which lends itself to wear, over the Ivy League suit.

The suburban, fingertip length and 1/2 length topcoats are very good for college wear, experts say. Many of these come in the same tweedy types as their longer topcoat brethren. Also worn are the poplin type with parka hoods and fleece linings. Plaid linings show up the 1/2 length coats and in raincoats. One poplin shell, looking like a rain coat, even has a zip-out fleece lining. Another has a zip-out cloth lining and is a double-breasted model.

In formal wear, most college men find that after their freshman year it is less expensive to buy formal wear than it is to rent it for each affair. About an $80 investment will equip the college squire for a formal outing.

Shirts remain about the same, with button-down collars a must. Newest in the shirt line is the tab shirt—a style popular in father's day. Staple types are the fine stripes and fine check patterns. Solid colors, of course, always are good. Sweaters are bulkier, with absolutely huge yarns and fancy stitches used. The trim provides 2-color interest and the patterns can only be called bold. Sweaters of this bulky type come in metal-buttoned cardigans, sleeveless and pullovers.

Drip-dry cottons are the handiest thing in sport shirts, with stripes and small plaids the staple patterns. Robes, although perhaps not as florid as the female of the species, are a necessity in college dorms. Favorites among the males are cotton and terrycloth models with bold stripes.

For wet weather, the newest thing in raincoats are iridescent in dark shades, and a few inches shorter. The patch pocket rather than the slash-type also marks the newer rainwear. For trimmings, narrow belts in fancy patterns, especially in elastic types, are the thing to wear. Bright colors and patterns are replacing the leather styles and the width is 4-inch.

Continue Executor's Quest for Reopening Of Barrymore Estate

Hollywood — A petition by the former executor of John Barrymore's will to reopen the estate has been continued until Oct. 14.

Opposition to reopening of the estate was voiced by the actor's son, John Barrymore, Jr., when the estate's executor, Gordon W. Levoy, filed the petition. Barrymore said he opposed the reopening because of the possibility it involved the inclusion of income from a possible movie production of Gene Fowler's "Goodnight, Sweet Prince," a biography of Barrymore.

Levoy said the issue involves the television rights to three old Barrymore films, "Svengali," "Moby Dick," and "The Mad Genius." Young Barrymore asked the court yesterday to explore the executive's motives further.

Explorer V's Fate Still Not Known

Cape Canaveral, Fla. — The disappearance of Explorer V still was an apparent mystery today as the army forged ahead with ambitious plans for two more satellite launches. The army still had no official comment on the cause of the latest failure two days after a powerful Jupiter-C rocket roared skyward on what appeared to be a perfect launching.

One spokesman said it may take several more days before complete telemetry reports on the flight are analyzed and the answer found, but the military usually withholds these announcements.

In the only activity at the Cape last night, a Snark intercontinental guided missile blasted away on the start of a 6,000 mile journey across the Atlantic. The trip toward target took about 10 hours. The results of the test were kept secret.

The 69-foot Snark, the nation's only missile to prove itself over intercontinental range at present, was fired by crewmen of the 556th Guided Missile Squadron of the Strategic Air Command.

The 556th probably will be assigned as the first Snark operational unit which is expected to be set up soon at Presque Isle, Maine.

Marquette street, wearing a narrow-lapelled charcoal and gray stripe sport coat in a 3-button model and black wool flannel trousers with a narrow leg. A black knit tie in the new washable dacron, an oxford cloth shirt with button-down collar and plain tip oxford shoes complete the outfit. At right, Al Cunningham, 221 N. Lawe street, models a 3-button gray and brown herringbone pattern sport coat with an over-all stripe effect. In medium-weight wool, the coat features metal buttons and narrow lapels. His trousers, in dark brown all wool flannel, have the Ivy League buckle back and this season's narrow leg without pleats. The tie is a silk repp stripe. Turn Down School Site Offer, Consider Others

Southside Land Not Needed Now, Board Says; Like Possibilities of Tract East of City

A firm offer to sell the city a tract of land for an elementary school site on the city's south limits was turned down Monday night by the board of education.

The board agreed to investigate further a tentative offer for a site in the Schaefer plat on the east side.

Turned down was a parcel just south of the Oscar Baerwald land which the city is considering for a park. It is owned by Joseph H. Doerflinger and was offered for $2,500 an acre. Doerflinger in a letter said he would sell either a 6.43-acre piece or one of 3.96 acres.

The offer was turned down because the board and Supt. of Schools John P. Mann felt a southside site won't be needed for a long time and other areas need attention first.

Doerflinger said he was offering the land because recent statements by councilmen and school board members saying a combination park-school site had many advantages.

Schaefer Property The east side offer came from Matt Schaefer, a member of the family owning the Schaefer plat on the east side. Franklin C. Jesse, one of the school board leaders in the search for new school sites, said Schaefer suggested three possible sites.

While no specific price was agreed on, Jesse said it would be roughly $2,500 an acre or possibly less, depending on which site is chosen.

The two sites most appealing to Mann and the school board were:

A plot immediately east of a park which Schaefer shows in a proposed plat just outside the east city limits.

A plot further east in the town of Buchanan and outside the proposed plat.

These, the board felt, were in the general area where growth is expected to be rapid due to annexation and the College-to-Candee high level bridge.

The third was farther south on E. Clara street and would be on land owned by the Schaefer family and Joseph Wittman. It would not be the best choice because it is about seven blocks east of Richmond school, Mann said.

Committee Study School Board President Edward V. Krueger named the business affairs committee, headed by Jesse, to investigate the sites further and try to get a concrete offer from Schaefer. Jesse said he was in favor of getting school sites well ahead of the time when schools are needed. "It saves money and stops arguments," he said.

Recreation Director Elmer W. Grover met with the board to discuss problems of mutual concern. The recreation department needs a backstop for a ball diamond in Erb park now that the school board has barred the use of Roosevelt school grounds by the department, he said.

One of the backstops at Roosevelt came from recreation department funds and technically belongs to the department, he said. He agreed, however, that it would be silly to take the backstop and then have the school put another in its place.

Who's To Pay? Mann agreed to find out if the back stop is needed at Roosevelt. If it is, it would be better for the city to buy a new one for the park diamond, all agreed. But, the problem seems to be—Who would pay for it? The recreation department which will be using it? The park board because it would be in the park? Or, the school board because it would owe the recreation department a backstop?

This problem was left undecided. Mann and Grover also agreed to work together to iron out conflicts between use of school facilities by the recreation department and school groups.

Stand by Action The board refused to reconsider contracts for laundering school towels. At the last meeting it awarded the work to Peerless Laundry. Sylvester Parker of People's Laundry asked the board to reconsider because the bid prices of five cents a pound were the same. Parker wanted the work split on a 50-50 basis. The board stood by its original decision.

The board refused to consider paying the Precour Construction company of Oshkosh a portion of the 10 per cent hold back from payment for work on the Madison Junior High school until the school is completed, inspected and accepted. Such payment would be contrary to school board practice, members felt.

A meeting between the school board and school advisory committee of the city council will be held to discuss the 1959 school budget prior to submitting the budget request to the council. The meeting was asked by Ald. Alvin Tews, committee chairman. A tentative budget probably will be presented to the school board in September.

The board approved contracts for five new teachers, accepted resignations from two and authorized a change waiting for word from city officials on acquiring Interlake of the maintenance staff to a park before going ahead with higher step. The man would plans to expand Richmond get $25 more per month and school. The city is negotiating with Consolidated Water Power grounds crew.

University Looking Into Honor Program

Faculty Unit to Meet
With Group Studying
Stiffer Instruction

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — University of Wisconsin faculty committees are exploring the possibility of college student honors programs suited to the abilities of especially gifted students. The studies are in the preliminary stages, said Prof. Fred Harrington, vice president in charge of academic affairs, and are not directly related to the student petition filed with the University regents last spring demanding more challenging instruction and stiffer study assignments for undergraduates. But the honors planning committees will consult with another special faculty-student committee — created by regents after the student petition.

Headed by Senior Teacher
The latter, consisting of representative students and faculty members, is headed by Prof. Helen White of the university English department. Prof. Harrington said current thinking on the development of an honors instruction program supposes some method of identifying and isolating especially talented students, perhaps through separate courses, or possibly through special attention and more selective work assignments. A way is also sought to identify gifted students before they reach university or college. Prof. Kenneth Little is in charge of investigation of methods for such selection, under a grant from the U.S. Office of Education. Summoned Leaders
The University administration reaction to the student petition was wholly respectful. Regents summoned leaders of the protesting students and asked for particulars. When it became evident the student group had few specific proposals, regents directed establishment of the White committee.

Enthusiastic Women Start Work by Putting Ticket on Police Car

Laramie, Wyo. — (AP) — Laramie Policeman Curt Grissom wonders if two new policewomen hired by the city to check meters aren't overly enthusiastic. In their first day on the job they passed out 178 parking tickets compared with average of about a dozen a day issued previously. And when off duty Patrolman Grissom parked his car and went looking for them to offer advice, they put a ticket on his car.

American, British Captains In Antarctic 138 Years Ago

BY RAMON COFFMAN

There is some question as to the man who first saw the mainland of the Antarctic continent. It may have been an American, Capt. Nathaniel Palmer, whose name was given to Palmer's peninsula, or it may have been a British sea captain, Edward Bransfield.

The question rests on this point: did one or the other mistake an island for the mainland, or the mainland for an island? In any case both captains were in the area of Palmer's peninsula (also known as Graham land) 138 years ago.

Much sailing took place in the waters around Antarctica during the remainder of the past century. Some of the vessels went there to hunt whales, others to explore the seas around the vast mass of snow-covered land.

Chief among the sea explorers were British captains. One of these was James Weddell and another was James C. Ross.

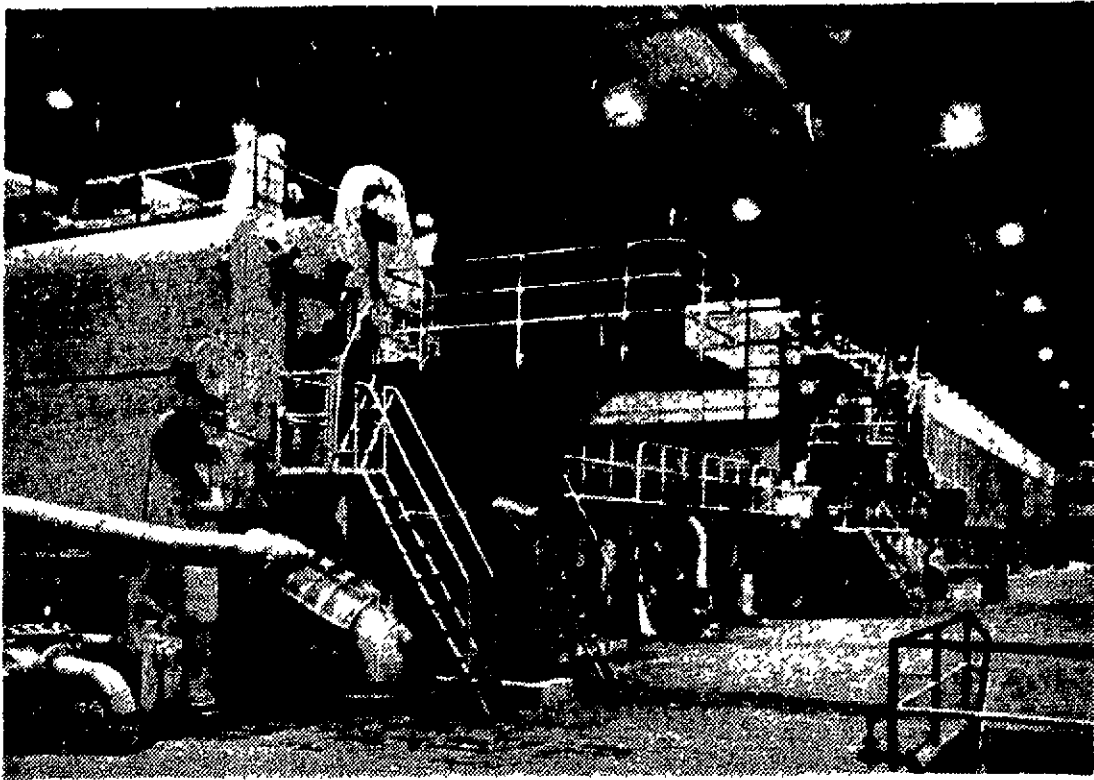

Ross, a sturdy Scotsman, was honored when his name was given to Ross sea. The Weddell sea was named for Weddell.

Q. Who was the first man to set foot on the mainland of the Antarctic continent?

A. Capt. Leonard Christensen, a Norwegian, is honored as the first to go ashore. He was in command of a vessel called the "Antarctic," and made a landing 63 years ago.

Q. Who was the first man to reach the South Pole?

A. Capt. Roald Amundsen.

This is the World's Largest Paper machine. It makes newsprint from softwoods at Kimberly-Clark corporation-operated Coosa River, Ala., plant, owned by 128 publishers. It went into operation in May as part of a $35 million expansion program at the mill. Sen. Proxmire has asked the federal government to spend $5 million for a pilot plant to test the feasibility of the same process.

Senator Asks Newsprint Mill Using Hardwood; K-C Already Has One

BY JACK GLASNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Several months ago Sen. William Proxmire created a stir by offering a bill for the federal government to spend $5 million for a pilot newsprint mill in Wisconsin, utilizing hardwoods.

Wakeman Proxmire

Apparently no one told him that Kimberly-Clark corporation was operating such a mill — full size — at Coosa Pines, Ala., a trade magazine, Pulp and Paper, suggests.

The Alabama plant — a $35 million investment — is operated by K-C and owned by 128 publishers. At one time, the Post-Crescent had a share and used newsprint from the plant. The Coosa plant uses hardwood through the cold caustic soda process described as "new" by Wisconsin's junior senator.

Proxmire said when he introduced the bill — for which the senate has appropriated $20,000 for preliminary study — that if the government did not take action to get a pilot plant going, it "might take many years to apply a new U. S. Forest Products laboratory (Madison) process to make newsprint from low grade hardwoods to commercial operations."

400 Tons Daily

This process is used at the Coosa plant. The mill has the world's largest paper machine, rated at 400 tons of newsprint a day, which went into operation in May. For nine years the mill has been supplying newsprint to publishers.

"Sen. Proxmire says that the congress has found a shortage of newsprint. We can supply a trainload of newsprint anytime anyone wants it. There is no shortage today," says Arthur Wakeman, who headed the Coosa river operation for K-C.

(Wakeman is vice president and director of Kimberly-Clark corporation and president and director of Coosa River Newsprint company, Coosa Pines, Ala.)

Wakeman goes on, "It may be of passing interest to know that we have also run on the highspeed machine at Coosa, newsprint made from bagasse (processed sugar cane). The government can offer Sen. Proxmire a book showing how to make paper out of cornstalks, Florida saw grass, bamboo and over 800 other different kinds of things grown in the United States.

"Some day we will be using some of these things and our government has not been lax in looking into this sort of thing," Wakeman declares.

Developed in Madison

The executive points out that the cold caustic soda process used on hardwoods at Coosa was developed at the Forest Products laboratory in Madison and proved at a government-sponsored pilot plant operated by the agriculture department under the lab's jurisdiction.

Proxmire suggested that the pilot newsprint plant his bill set up would utilize local hardwoods and furnish job opportunities.

Rep. William K. Van Pelt, retorted that the paper industry in the lake states had turned away from newsprint for more profitable grades of pulp and paper — using these hardwoods — because of competitive costs. He added that the northern states could not compete with Canada and the south in newsprint.

Hardwood Use

Officials at the Institute of Paper Chemistry here are quick to point out that hardwood use in Wisconsin took a phenomenal jump of about 35 per cent in a few years as the result of Wisconsin mills using area resources. As a matter of cost, it is added, it has been simple economics to work toward utilizing hardwoods growing nearer to mills.

Much work at the paper institute has been in the genetics of softwoods — particularly the fast-growing aspen — to provide better means of forest management and consequent stable supply of local softwoods.

Proxmire stated there was a shortage of newsprint.

The U.S. department of commerce forecasts that newsprint supply will exceed demand by a growing margin through 1959.

Wakeman says the Coosa mill has had a supply available for any hardship cases since the mill started nine years ago and still has it — adding that there isn't any shortage, anyway.

And Wakeman has invited the senator down to Alabama to take a look at a full-size, commercial enterprise which pays its own way without a government subsidy.

The junior senator hasn't picked up the invitation.

Welfare Unit Hails Prison Program

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The state welfare administration has hailed the success of its prison work farm and camp program, to which thousands of offenders have been assigned under conditions making escape comparatively easy.

But only 1 out of 85 men sent to such field camps during the last decade has walked away, and all except 2 of 99 men who escaped were quickly recaptured or returned to camp of their own volition, the state corrections division reported.

Tuesday, August 26, 1958 Appleton Post-Crescent A16

The state now maintains a series of farms and forestry camps to give practical work experience to state reformatory and state penitentiary inmates judged suited for such assignment. The camps perform useful forest improvement work and contribute substantially to the huge food requirements of welfare institutions.

During the last eight and one-half years the state prison alone has sent an average of 650 men each year to farms, and camps.

Officials are now planning an extension of the camp program to accommodate increased corrections institution admissions.

Schedule Thrill Show for Last Day of Fair

Annual Exposition To Close Saturday With Motor Olympics

Oshkosh — While the Winnebago county fair opens its 4-day run here Wednesday, thrill-seekers are looking forward to Saturday when the grandstand entertainment will feature the annual tournament of thrills and motor olympics.

Before that will be the wild animal show on Wednesday, Duke Ellington and his band on Thursday and Friday with performances at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock at night daily. Two shows also are scheduled for thrill day.

The motor olympics promise two hours of spine-tingling entertainment by the famous troupe of stunt men and auto and motorcycle daredevils. Brand new stock automobiles are used for many of the feats except the deliberate crash and smash events in which worn out cars, ready for the junk yard, are used.

Stunt Men
The performers in the tournament of thrills are gathered annually from movie lots, speedways and from auto thrill show units. They appear often on both television and the movies.

A sensational climax to the show is the catapult of a speeding automobile 75 feet through the air from a simulated mammoth cannon. Actually the auto is driven through the tube but there are only inches to spare on each side.

Among the many new features with the current edition of the Trans-Vision Auto Daredevils is Claudeen, a product of the circus where she was a featured aerialist. She now performs on a specially constructed aerial trapeze dangling from a speeding convertible. She must not only defy the laws of gravity but also must battle with winds, air drafts and centrifugal force in her stunts.

A veteran of World War I, he served as a captain in the army and also was a former commander of the local National Guard unit.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Kessler Funeral home with Dr. John E. Bouquet, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in charge. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Survivors are the widow; two daughters, Miss Marjorie H. Smith of Neenah and Mrs. Irving Cameron of Northridge.

Closing the 4-Day Winnebago County fair next Saturday will be the tournament of thrills and motor olympics with grandstand performances at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock at night. The fair opens Wednesday. The upper photo shows one of the crash stunts while in the lower photo Claudeen, an aerialist, performs on an aerial trapeze dangling from a speeding convertible.

Menasha School Hours Changed

Junior-Senior High Adds Extra Period Because of Enrolment

Menasha — Because of larger enrolments, the Menasha Junior and Senior High school is adding another class period, Supt. of Schools M. J. Gegan announced today, lengthening the school day to seven periods.

School will run from 8 o'clock in the morning to 11:40 at noon and will resume at 12:45 in the afternoon and run until 3:29. Classes formerly were dismissed at 3:10 in the afternoon.

Adding the extra period will enable a reduction in class sizes, to a more workable number and provide extra sections in subject fields that had been crowded.

The change in the junior and senior high school hours also necessitates a change in the elementary school schedule, Supt. Gegan explained.

Grade School Hours

Elementary schools will begin classes at 8:30 in the morning and close at 11:45 for the noon recess. Classes will resume at 1:15 in the afternoon and run until 3:45.

This is the same class length day for the elementary schools but 15 minutes have been added to the noon period and the afternoon classes are dismissed 15 minutes later.

This change was made necessary because of the longer afternoon session in the junior and senior high school. Since the same buses are used in transportation of elementary and secondary education children, dismissal in the elementary schools has been delayed by 15 minutes.

The Menasha school superintendent pointed out that bus schedules now are being developed. In general the transportation will follow along the same line as before with three exceptions.

Bus Changes
These exceptions are the Page's point and Tayco street drive area, Suburban Heights and the township side of Ninth street. Children living in these locations will walk to the particular grade school or the junior-senior high school which they will attend. These dis-

Transportation People Insure Transportation

J. J. Keller and Associates Offer Specialized Insurance

Neenah — To better serve a growing demand for specialized service, J. J. Keller and Associates of Neenah have developed a full department for the underwriting and servicing of specialized and heavy hazard insurance.

The company writes general lines to provide a well-rounded service for its clients. Special covers are written for Transportation, Inland Marine, Merchandise Cargo, Automobile Fleet Liability and Long Haul Truck. Special bonds such as Fidelity, Fiduciary Trust, Warehouse Legal Liability, Contract Performance and other general bonds are written.

After many years of experience in the transportation, warehousing and distributive fields, Keller arrived at the conclusion that to properly underwrite risks in the commercial field, broad experience was necessary. Therefore, the establishment of an insurance firm within the firm was another step to round out this unique facility.

It is believed that the Keller organization is singular in its field and the only one of its kind operating in the state of Wisconsin, if not the only one operating in the nation.

Technical Trend Keller said that due to an extremely technical trend in commerce today, the insurance programs of individuals and business firms should be carefully watched. Too often lack of proper coverage is the so-called "missing link" in the necessary protection for an individual or his business.

The same hazard exists from the smallest 1-man shop to the industry employing in thousands. From time to time the commercial service programs, including insurance, should be examined by experts. Many times what appears to be a minor recommendation actually results in thousands of dollars saved.

Money Conscious Unfortunately but true, the entire national community is money and law-suit conscious. For example, occurrences that 25 years ago could be arbitrated and settled for relatively few dollars, can easily at this date blossom into litigation.

J. J. Keller

tion that in itself is very expensive, to say nothing of the vast amounts named in the claims, Keller explained.

It is certainly illogical to bend every effort promoting a successful business operation and then watch the entire effort be drained away due to either inadequate coverage or improper coverage, he pointed out.

Keller advises all parties to have their insurance programs thoroughly checked at the earliest possible date, and that his firm has a staff of specialists available to do this job.

Keller offers the following advice: "All users of motor equipment — public or private — would be wise to investigate the facilities offered them through our firm. If you are using automotive vehicles and equipment, we are in an excellent position to help you, being a transportation agent."

Jakarta Puts Ban On Chinese Party

Jakarta, Indonesia — (AP)

The Jakarta administration today banned all activities by the Chinese nationalist Kuomintang party, charging it "endangered the peace, order and security of the Republic of Indonesia."

Indonesia recognized communist China eight years ago. The order said members of the Kuomintang executive were to report to authorities. Chinese sources said the executive was disbanded long ago and its president had left the country.

The decree is believed aimed mostly at schools and social organizations of nationalist sympathizing Chinese. There are some 200,000 people of Chinese origin in Jakarta, some 30 per cent of whom are believed to lean toward nationalist China.

Use Containers Of Glass for Frozen Foods

Oshkosh — For a freezer-to-oven-to-table container, use "heat resistant" glass pie plates, cake pans and bake dishes, suggests Miss Lois Klumeyer, county home agent. Bake foods in the usual way, except cut down the time about one-fourth for casseroles.

Cool food and wrap open dishes in freezer paper or heavy aluminum foil. Foods frozen in glass can be taken right from the freezer and placed in a hot oven to bake. Pies are easier to wrap if you freeze them first, advises the home agent. Either baked or unbaked pies can be frozen. A paper plate placed over the top of the pie will help keep the top crust attractive. Heat unbaked pies in a 350 degree oven for an hour and baked pies for 30 to 40 minutes.

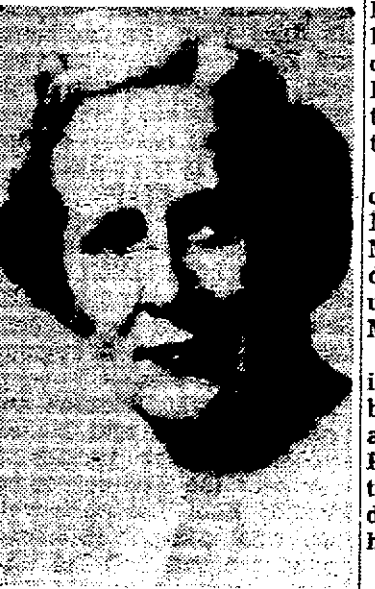

Elect Resident to National VFW Post

Neenah — Mrs. William Campbell, 579 Oak street, was elected national guard at the national convention of Veterans of Foreign Wars ladies auxiliaries in New York City last week. The convention opened Aug. 17 and ended Friday.

She served two years as a national council member.

Her duties as a guard will include acting in that office at next year's national convention and attending the council meeting to be held in Washington, D.C., in late winter. She will continue to serve on the national council in her new elective office.

Mrs. Campbell is a former state VFW auxiliary president and is the charter president of Nicolet VFW auxiliary. She now is a member of the

Braves Hike Lead To 8 Games on Spahn's 5-Hitter

Big 2nd Inning Gives Milwaukee 7th Straight Over San Francisco

So the Milwaukee Braves can't beat the also-ran Los Angeles Dodgers. It may be annoying, but it's not crucial. Not when the champs can run off seven in a row against the San Francisco Giants, the club they have to beat.

Twice in the last four weeks, the Dodgers have belittled the Braves and left 'em looking as though they could be had. Instead, they've spanked the second-place Giants and romped off with 8-game leads in the National league pennant chase.

Just last week they dropped four of five to the fourth-place Dodgers, but then whipped the Giants in the opener of a "showdown" 5-game series at San Francisco 8-5, in 10 innings Sunday. Monday night they did it again, rapping the Giants, 6-1, behind Warren Spahn, who shrugged off a

St. Louis Stops Pirates, 7-1, as Jackson Wins 11th

(From AP Dispatches)

The Los Angeles Dodgers retained fourth place in the National league race Monday, coming from behind for a 4-2 victory over Cincinnati.

First place Milwaukee trimmed San Francisco, 6-1, and St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh, 7-1, in the only other NL contests scheduled.

Wally Moon had three of the Cardinals' nine hits off loser Ron Kline (12-12) and R. G. Smith, one a 2-on homer that capped a 4-run third. Larry Jackson (11-10) was the winner. He gave up eight hits, losing his shutout bid on Hank Foiles' double, a sacrifice and Bob Clemente's single in the third that tied it 1-1.

Southpaw Johnny Podres gave up a 2-run homer to Pete Whisenant in the first inning, then blanked the Reds on seven hits for a 12-10 record. Harvey Haddix (7-7) lost it. Carl Furillo drove in the first two Dodger runs with a pair of singles and scored the lead run on Don Zimmer's single in the third.

sore throat and won his seventeenth of the year—first on the West Coast.

Braves Now 3-5

The Braves, who have won only seven of 20 from the Dodgers, now stand 13-5 over the Giants. Spahn, backed up by a 3-run second inning, tossed a 5-hitter. He had a 1-hit shutout until the fifth while matching Pittsburgh's Bob Friend as the NL's top winner.

The Braves sent nine men to the plate in the big second against loser Mike McCormick (9-7) and reliever Gordon Jones.

Willie Kirkland's first-inning single was the only hit off Spahn until the fifth when the Giants scored their lone run on Daryl Spencer's single, two walks and Willie May's infield single.

Spahn gave up two more singles, one in the eighth inning by Orlando Cepeda and a hit to center in the ninth by Jackie Brandt.

Henry Aaron opened the second inning with a single, Joe Adcock doubled and Andy Pafko singled both runners home.

Pafko took second on rookie Leon Wagner's fumble and went to third as Johnny Logan forced Del Crandall, who got on base when he was hit by a McCormick pitch. Spahn got to first base when Cepeda

'Football Weather' Greet Big Group of AHS Grid Aspirants

109 Out for Squad as Defending FRVC Champions Open Drills

BY MIKE DREW

Cool and cloudy "football weather" greeted a huge group of Appleton High school grid candidates as the Terrors opened 1958 drills Monday.

A total of 109 youths have indicated their desire to try out for the team and most of them were on hand for Monday's morning and afternoon workouts.

Terror Coach Ade Dillon has a bagful of problems as he prepares to shape his quantitatively-large outfit into a worthy successor to the powerful 1956 and 1957 Fox River Valley conference champions.

Eich Re-injured

He has just 10 lettermen on hand and one of the most important of them, co-captain Joe Eich, fullback and line-backer, is currently in the question-mark category.

Eich, a hard-nosed, block-busting senior, seriously injured his left knee late in the 1957 season and re-injured it this summer. The 210-pounder was getting twinges from the knee area Monday.

The other nine monogram winners—including only four linemen—were all on hand and fit Monday. They include center Tom Kotke, tackle Bob Lecy, guards Bob Thomas and Ron Bunkleman and backs Co-Captain Bob Henning, Mike Franzke, Bob Roe

Horvatin Stops Foxes, 4-2, Gives A's Sweep of Series

Hall Homers in Losing Cause; Fox Cities '9' Plays LC-K In Exhibition Game Tonight

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Sir Edmund Hillary had an easier time scaling Mount Everest than Fox Cities pitchers have reaching the 10-victory peak.

With 116 games of the Three-I league campaign gone and only 14 left, no Fox hurler has bagged as many as 10 enemy scalps.

Rene "Babe" Nodarse, who won his ninth game Aug. 4, made his fifth fruitless bid for No. 10 Monday night at Goodland field. The final score was 4-2 in favor of Winona and its league-leading strikeout artist, Stan Horvatin.

A's Sweep Series

Southpaw Dick Griffith has been the only other Fox to hit the 9-win level. But, after eight frustrating tries for that elusive No. 10, he was accorded a "change of scene" trip to Missoula of the Class C Pioneer league.

In dealing the Foxes their fourth straight loss of the 4-game series, the transplanted A's of Winona made sure that the Fox Cities' current last-place record of the second round is worse than the one they compiled under the Rochester banner in the first round. The Foxes are now 19-38 for second-half play. The A's — the unwanted step-children of the first half schedule — won 20 and lost 37 while at Rochester.

A geographical switch and the addition of several new faces have done wonders for the A's. Their latest win puts them in a won-lost tie for second.

Football Futures of 35 Players at Stake in Packer-Eagle Contest

Both Clubs Must Reduce Rosters to 43 Following Labor Day Exhibition Tilt

BY ART DALEY
Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — The Packer-Eagle game in City stadium Monday night will be a giant battle royal.

It isn't listed as a league game but the close-to-120 participants from Green Bay and Philadelphia will be battling like their very lives were at stake!

The football futures of at least 35 of the gladiators will be on the line because each team must, under league rules, reduce its roster to 43

Minneapolis Council Near Bond Issue OK

Aldermen Vote, 10-1, In Favor During Preliminary Roll Call

Minneapolis — Council approval of a nine million dollar bond issue to speed a major league baseball team to Minneapolis appeared nearly certain today.

Aldermen voted 10 to 1 in favor of the move in a preliminary roll call Monday. Council President George Martens said the proposal would carry without difficulty at the next council session Friday. The bond issue needs nine votes for passage. Two aldermen did not vote.

It represents Minneapolis' trump card in the long and disappointment-strewn dealing to land a big league franchise here.

The city's big league negotiators made it clear to the council they are aiming at bringing a team here by next year. They told the aldermen, in fact, that the bond proposal should be scrapped for the time being if the city doesn't get a commitment by Jan. 1, 1959.

Picking up Steam

Whether they are looking to the Washington Senators for such a commitment, possibly within days, wasn't brought out. But reports of an imminent Senators' request for permission to shift their American league franchise have been picking up steam rapidly.

The proposal on which the council will take final action Friday would give the city's guarantee to a $3 million dollar bond issue, mainly for expansion of Metropolitan stadium from 21,000 seats to 41,000.

Another $3 million dollar issue, not obligated by the city, their cohorts didn't figure to would replace bonds now held by original investors in the much but Van Brocklin engineered the winning touchdown in the last eight minutes of the victory. Van Brocklin worked the Eagles 80 yards in the last two minutes vs. the Bears but the gun ended the game with first down and less than a yard to go for a touchdown. The Bears won the rain-mud battle, 3 to 0.

California and UCLA Coaches In Squabble

Dickerson Demands That Elliott Curb Recruiter's Efforts

Berkeley, Calif. —The University of California has sternly rebuked UCLA's head football coach but is investigating his charges against athletic recruiting.

George Dickerson, successor to the late Coach "Red" Sanders at UCLA, shattered pre-semester calm on California's campus by confronting Coach Pete Elliott in his office.

Dickerson demanded that Elliott curb the activities of Herman Weiner, president of Southern Seas, a University of California booster group in Southern California. This was Saturday. Monday, Dickerson told a news conference about it.

Withdrew Request Elliott said in a statement he had agreed Saturday to ask Weiner to cease any activities until Dickerson's charge could be properly investigated. But, he added, because of the UCLA's coach's statements to the press he had withdrawn the request to Weiner.

In Los Angeles, Weiner said the charges against him were entirely false.

Dickerson charged that two young athletes, Dean Moore, freshman tailback at UCLA last fall, and Bill Kilmer, Citrus Junior College back, told him Weiner had offered them illegal payoffs to enroll at California. Moore and Kilmer accompanied Dickerson to Elliott's office.

Grid Drills Open at UW, MU Labor Day

By The Associated Press Fall football drills get under way at the University of Wisconsin and Marquette university Labor day.

The Badgers, under Coach Milt Bruhn, will be out to prove that their 6-3 won-loss record last season was no fluke while the Warriors, coached by Johnny Druze, will try to present him with his first victory as a head coach.

Marquette's losing streak stands at 20. It includes two full seasons, plus final game of the 1955 campaign. Druze has been coach through 19 of the setbacks.

He invited 66 varsity candidates, including 23 lettermen, for the first session of 2-a-day drills. The Warriors will have only 14 days of double workouts before opener Sept. 20 against South Dakota State. Single sessions will be held the week preceding the opening game.

Winners of Flights, Other Than the championship bracket, receive trophies Sunday from co-chairman Laymon "Doc" Wonsler (standing far left) after the Appleton city golf tourney finals. Seated, left to

These Days

Adm. Rickover Invaluable in New Technical Warfare, Says Sokolsky

BY GEORGE SOKOLSKY

New York — There is always somebody in the armed services who is more concerned about status than stature. Uniforms, discipline, obedience are important in any branch of a regimented service but when a nation is engaged in a war of brains, the martinet can and often does clog the works. We know about the cases of Gen. Billy Mitchell, of Gen. James Gavin or Adm. Hyman Rickover. The people have long forgotten about the humiliation of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

But there must be thousands of minds in the armed services held down by brass who will not give an inch in the presence of superior intelligence. Then there is a terrific noise in the press and the president of the United States intervenes as he did in the Rickover matter, giving the admiral the high honor of representing the president at the ceremonies for the "Nautilus" in New York.

The navy particularly suffers from this rigidity. Back in the days when the master of a ship was, in effect, sovereign, when his position was so distinguished and separate that the captain always ate alone, such matters as a little more gold on a uniform were of primary importance.

Rickover Invaluable Today, the builder of a better submarine, of a superior rocket, of a new kind of warfare is very much more important. The battleship is a discarded weapon; it could happen that all naval war hereafter will be under-sea. This makes such a genius as Adm. Rickover invaluable to the United States. He knows how to build atom-powered submarines. He also cuts across every form of red-tape which suppresses brains. He has so organized his work that a commander might work under a lieutenant, for what he deals with is the mind, not appearance. The absent-minded professor would be court-martialed for pouring soup on his uniform, but that same professor might be able to handle mathematical formulae so skillfully that he could develop that one little gadget that would save thousands of lives in the next war.

Rickover wants that professor to work for him and so far as he is concerned, the absent-minded one can bathe in soup or have his egg on his mustache or forget where he put his hat. Nothing matters to Rickover but results and whoever produces the results is a big man to him. To avoid getting all messed up in red-tape, Adm. Rickover has managed to hold two jobs; one in the navy, the other in the atomic energy commission. In the latter post, uniforms are not worn and the work is done with the freedom it might have in private industry.

There are many reasons why some of the brass in the navy dislike Rickover. For one reason, he has managed to get congress to support his submarine program in spite of navy brass who still want surface ships, just as cavalry once wanted to retain the horse. Rickover, like most brilliant minds, is not bogged down by what the lazy of mind and body like to call teamwork. He has made the battle for a weapon, the atom-powered submarine, his life work.

Lacks Sociability Secondly, Rickover lacks the kind of sociability that is customary in the navy and that really added to diplomatic strength in far stations when amenities were still very important. Nowadays, we are on the qui vive against a probable enemy and we are in a race for new weapons and tactical methods. The handsome naval officer with superb manners and just the right approach to everything is not to be discarded, but he is no longer as important as a naval designer, a physicist or a tailoring mind such as Rickover's which can put a lot of things together in just the right place.

It is a new kind of war and a new kind of world and those who cannot adjust to the changes will fall by the wayside. Whoever nubbled Adm. Hyman Rickover by not inviting him to the White House when the commander of the "Nautilus" was honored was a fool. He did not hurt Rickover, who went about his business; he hurt the United States, which is everybody's business. The president has corrected this, but it should not have happened.

Net 69 Wins Honors in BDM Meet

Bob Martin's 73 Sets Low Gross Pace

Mike Cochran and Mrs. George Beckley, Jr., won the mixed 4-ball foursome tournament over the weekend at Appleton Butte des Morts. They fired a net 69.

There were 54 entrants in the event. Second, with a net of 71, were Mrs. Eli Jandrin and Frank Pechman. Third, with a 73 net, were Mrs. Paul Blackwood and Harold Johnston. Tied for fourth with 76s were Mrs. Paul Blackwood and Har-and Bill Barnes, the teams sophomore major rushing backs.

Back to Normal

The Packer camp at St. Norbert college slowly returned to normal today — which is the morning after, so to speak — after the annual rookie night show. Everybody had a great time, it was reported today as the rookies turned the recreation room at Sensenbrenner hall into a theatre. About the only note that leaked out was a report that Ed Culpepper served as master of ceremonies.

With 500 people looking on, it's no secret that Paul Hornung is doing a lot of passing in practice — and so is Howie Ferguson. These two power-busters who run in the same backfield can throw a mean pass. Hornung, having been a quarterback, falls right into throwing but Fergie is finding that it takes considerable practice.

In the President's flight of the BDM club championship tournament, Mike Cochran beat Dr. F. J. Rankin, 3 and 2, in the quarter-finals and Roland Hopfensperger, 2-up in the semi-finals.

Milt Rueckl eliminated Paul Blackwood in a Directors' flight match. Secretary's flight results include: Franz Larson over Harold Sherry, 4 and 3, quarter-finals; Ed Brill over Glenn Carroll, first round; Eli Jandrin over Don Bradley, 5 and 3, quarter-finals; and Tom Jewell over Art Trettin, 1 up, quarter-finals.

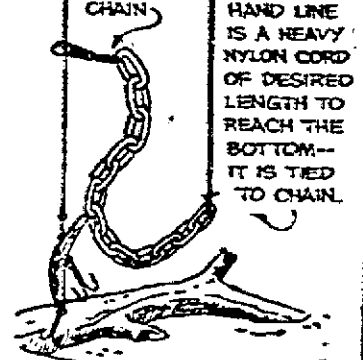

The low gross score over the weekend at BDM was Bob Martin's 3-over-par 73. Other low gross tallies were these: John Hayes, John Lindberg and Otto Lieber, 74; Bill Schleisner, 75; Bob Martin, 76; Mike Cochran, 75 and 76; Harvey Lhost, 77 and 78; George Wohlford and Dan Steinberg, Jr., 78; Irv Ferrel, 78 and 79; and Ed Adam, Ted Bernhard, Al Rudolf, T. the big squad into more workable varsity and JV groups. The JVs will be composed entirely of sophomores. Dillon intends to keep a full squad of sophomores, about 11, on the varsity, a larger group of first-year men than he usually brings up.

This is because the coach feels that he has an unusually good crop of sophs this season.

"We'll be even stronger next season when they're bigger," he says.

Several good prospects who were backs on last fall's McKinley freshman team—Jerry Loberger and Roger Gruska—haven't yet reported for football and Dillon misses them.

The Terrors are certain to be smaller than last season's aggregation with its prize collection of plus-200 pound linemen.

3 Days Off

Thomas and 270-pound Cliff Olson are built along the lines of some of last season's bruisers but, all in all, there isn't as much aggregate beef around.

"We're not as big as last year," Dillon admits, "but we have the physical qualifications—size and ability—to do a pretty good job. It's too early to tell how far we can go. One of the main questions is the amount of desire this group has. A lot depends on the desire."

Dillon feels that Fond du Lac and the Green Bay schools are some of the principal "teams to beat" this season.

The coach will give his club three days off this weekend, from Saturday through Labor day. "I believe in giving them that one last fling with their parents before school starts," Dillon says.

The Terrors will have nearly three weeks of practice before their 1958 opener, at Menasha, on Sept. 12. That's about the usual amount of pre-season workout time.

Hurdis McCrary will assist Dillon and Landis with the varsity on a part-time basis this fall. Keith Kohlman and Gene VandenHeuvel will again handle the junior varsity.

Designate 2 Streets as Truck Routes

Action Would Aid
Industry, Committee
Will Tell Council

Sections of two west side streets are recommended as truck routes by the public safety committee despite objections of three property owners.

They are W. Fourth street from S. Bounds street to S. Douglas street and S. Douglas from W. Fourth to W. Second street.

Committee men Monday night said some trucks are coming from the loading dock of Miller Electric Manufacturing company, Inc., a native industry which should be encouraged.

Discussion between committee men and Donald Sheehy, 1519 W. Fourth street, one of the objectors, indicated the company sends an average of about seven trucks a day along the W. Fourth-S. Douglas route.

Not Built for Trucks
Sheehy said W. Fourth, a newly constructed street, has only four inches of gravel beneath a 2-inch asphalt mat and is not built for truck traffic.

The loading dock, Sheehy said, is closer to an existing truck route along S. Bounds and W. Second street and the company and another trucker in the area ought to use the existing route.

Committee men said W. Fourth is too narrow at the loading dock to permit trucks to turn around and Miller has no choice.

Other objectors, who signed a remonstrance presented Monday afternoon, are Floyd J. Dunsirn, 624 S. Douglas, and Walter Brandt, 702 S. Douglas.

Other Actions
The city council will vote on the recommendation Wednesday night, Sept. 3.

Other committee actions: Street lights were ordered for the intersections of S. Christine street and E. Esther street and E. Clara street and at E. Clara and S. Joseph street.

Committee men refused to recommend a school crossing guard at Memorial drive and W. Seymour street. School Supt. John Mann said fifth and sixth graders from the River drive area will not be sent to McKinley school, but to Madison Junior High school or Foster school. Ald. Harold Jannemann asked for the guard because, he said, many children from River drive go to Sacred Heart school, additional children will be going to McKinley this year and Memorial drive is a federal highway with about 1,500 cars an hour.

A 2-hour parking limit for E. Pacific street from N. Lawe street to N. Bateman street was denied. One restriction probably would lead to several others in the 2-block area surrounding Appleton Wire Works, Inc., it was said. Ald. Homer Malmstrom said he sought the restriction to keep wire works employees from parking all day.

Deny Stop-Go Light
Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings' request for a stop-go light at W. College avenue and Mason street was denied. She had said the light should operate when children cross the intersection to and from school. Committee men said the children are of junior high or high school age and don't need the light.

Ald. Donald Mueller's request for a parking ban on both sides of N. Drew street for 70 feet on either side E. Wisconsin avenue was denied. Committee men said there is sufficient room there now for buses.

Traffic Sgt. John Gosch was asked to study pedestrian traffic patterns at Madison Junior High school the first week it is open and make recommendations for stop and caution signs sought by Ald. Robert Stumpf.

A decision on Ald. Austin N. Tucker's request for truck directional signs at N. Superior street and W. Packard street and N. Morrison street and E. Pacific street or N. Morrison and E. North street was put off until Gosch can be heard.

USDA Okays Milk Order

Pool System Gets Backing; Farmers
To Vote on Plan

Fond du Lac — A dairy organization announced Monday that the U. S. department of agriculture has recommended a marketwide pool system for federal milk marketing in northeastern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

William C. Eckles, general manager of the Pure Milk Products cooperative, said the cooperative had favored a pool on the level of the individual handler instead of a marketwide system.

Eckles said, however, "It is the feeling of Pure Milk Products that the issuance of the order with a marketwide pooling arrangement is far better than having no order."

"This will put a floor under milk used for bottled products that is more nearly in line with its value than has been paid by handlers in this general area in the past."

Eckles said anyone interested in the system has until Saturday to file exceptions to the department's recommendation for an order. Dairy farmers in the area have not yet voted on the proposals.

Members of the WATA staff will conduct this session as well as a closed morning session dealing with techniques involved in the coming Christmas Seal sale.

Hole in Road Ruins Plans For Runaway

Hortonville — The Highway 45 construction project on Main street here proved the ruin of runaway plans for a 14-year-old Chicago boy this morning.

David Vogt, riding a motorcycle to Phelps to his uncle's home, struck a hole in the street and suffered cuts, bruises and abrasions about his face, hands and knees about 6:30 this morning.

Police Chief Ira Dominowski said five stitches were needed to close a cut on his forehead.

The chief called the boy's parents and learned the boy had left Chicago about 11 o'clock Monday night. He said they are on their way north to pick up their son who is being held in the county jail.

Appleton Wins First State Shoot Trophy

4-Member Team
Wins Championship
With 1,136 of 1,200

Appleton's police Class A pistol team brought home the Police Protective association state championship from LaCrosse Monday.

The 4-member team compiled 1,136 points of a possible 1,200 to win their first championship. Several times in second, the Appleton team never managed to take first. Earlier this month the team won the Fox Valley Shoot trophy, beating six other department teams.

Members of the team are Patrolman Donald Pekarske, Jerome Kavaney, John Van Bummel and Detective Norbert Marx. Pekarske is the team captain. Marx was chairman of the shoot committee.

The score is compiled from 30 rounds shot by each team member — 10 rounds each of slow fire, 2 1/2 minutes for each 5-round shoot, timed fire, 20 seconds for each 5-round shoot, and rapid fire, 10 seconds for each 5-round shoot.

Nenah Man Second
James Hawley of the Nenah police department placed second in the Class B individual shooting with an 854 score. He trailed Walter Dueno, Manitowoc, 862, and led Joseph Michal, Manitowoc, with 851.

High individual score and state champion repeater was Clarence Nelson, Racine, who beat runnerups by one point. Nelson got 874 points in Class A individual shooting, beating a tie for second at 873 for Don Cuene, Green Bay, and James Kalan, Racine.

Other Scores Listed

Other scoring: Class C-1, George Thebo, Green Bay; 2, Art Leutke, Chippewa Falls, 827; 3, John Zapf, Kenosha, 825. Class D-1, Claude Aufdemauer, Stevens Point, 823; 2, Emil Cislis, Manitowoc, 815; 3, Don Michaelson, Madison, 807.

Other team champions: Class B — Racine's Glen Clickner, Claire Ackley, Herman Cramer and James Kaplan; 1,127.

Class C — Manitowoc's Joseph Michal, Walter Dueno, Melvin Reinhardt and Emil Cislis; 1,101.

Class D — Madison's D. Holtzman, E. Schuster, C. Olson and Don Michaelson; 1,047.

Glen Derks, 1502 N. Grace-land avenue, had an unfortunate experience Friday night at a record hop at the Veterans of Foreign Wars clubhouse. It seems Glen went along with a gag—he got himself locked into a set of handcuffs. The only thing was that the fellow with the cuffs wanted 75 cents to unlock them. Glen wouldn't pay. Glen wore the cuffs until county radio operator Frank Krueger took him to the Appleton police station, where a hacksaw replaced a key.

Legion Post Plans Banquet to Honor Team Sponsor

American Legion Post No. 38 will sponsor a banquet Wednesday night in recognition of Sherry Motors, sponsor of the American Legion junior league baseball team for several years.

The banquet will be at 6:30 Wednesday night at the Legion club.

Guests, who will be introduced, at pre-dinner ceremonies, will include Bob Allen, from the Milwaukee Braves public relations office, guest speaker; Mayor Clarence Mitchell; Bob Willis, Fox Cities Foxes business manager; Dave Koslo, former major league player with the New York Giants and Milwaukee Braves, and Frank Werner, representing the junior baseball league.

About 60 or 70 people are expected at the banquet.

WAPL Gives Judge Youth Center Check

A $1,000 check was turned over to Juvenile Judge Stanley A. Staidl Monday by WAPL radio to be held in trust for a Fox Cities youth center.

The trust, Judge Staidl said today, will be administered by Fox Cities Youth Foundation, Inc.

Karl Baldwin, L. H. Chudacoff and Miss Connie Forster, three of the four owners of WAPL, are incorporators of the foundation, Baldwin said.

The trio, Baldwin reported, will attempt to get a representative board of directors from among business and civic leaders.

Into Bank

Announced purpose of the corporation is to raise funds for a youth center, not necessarily in Appleton. Approved incorporation papers have not yet been received at the county register of deeds office.

Judge Staidl said he would place the money in escrow in a local bank.

Jerry Luedtke, of WAPL's staff, told the city council in July that the $1,000 would be turned over to the council to be held in escrow if Disc Jockey Bob Bandy received 200,000 communications to come down from a perch atop the Balliet hotel.

The council was advised of the plan because the station needed its permission to string publicity banners across W. Washington street and N. Appleton street at the hotel.

Bandy mounted his tower July 4 and was assisted down by the fire department Aug. 10 after the station said he had received in excess of 210,000 calls, letters and cards.

Driver Who Fled Crash Fined $200

Also Charged $50 for Not Having Driver's License

Joseph J. Ostrowski, 44, route 1, Appleton, who was caught by witnesses after he fled an accident Sunday, was fined $200 for fleeing and $50 for driving without a license.

Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiege also ordered that no license be issued Ostrowski for at least a year.

Ostrowski was arrested after he hit a motorcyclist at Highway 41 and County Trunk A, then fled south on A. He was caught by witnesses about a mile away, at A and Highway 10. County police said Ostrowski apparently ignored the stop sign at 41 and A, hitting the cycle and knocking its rider about 120 feet into a ditch and fence.

Robert H. Lillge, 16, route 3, Appleton, admitted that he left the scene of an accident and his driver's license was revoked a year. Lillge can get his license back in a month if he pays the damages stemming from the accident and is not arrested for the next year for a moving traffic violation.

Hit Car
Lillge hit the rear of a car at W. College avenue and Superior street Wednesday, then refused to give the woman driver his name. She got his license number and police arrested him.

Fined for ignoring stop signs and charged three points were: William B. Hesselstine, Donald R. McNeil and William F. Steuber, all of Madison.

McNeil, associate director of the State Historical society, and Hesselstine, University of Wisconsin history professor, were cited for their book "In Support of Clio: Essays in Memory of Herbert A. Keller." It was published by the Historical society.

Steuber, an employee of the state highway commission, was cited for his historical novel, "The Landlooker." The association presents annual awards to individuals or organizations promoting a better understanding of national heritage at the local level.

Uneven Tone On Exchange

Drug Shares Move Higher During Active Trading

New York—(U)—Drugs made some gains in an uneven stock market early this afternoon. Trading was fairly active.

Gains and losses of key stocks went from fractions to about a point.

The tendency was slightly higher.

Drugs were spurred by some favorable Wall Street reports lately.

Motors shaded off as the labor situation in Detroit continued uncertain; Steels, rails, nonferrous metals, chemicals and oils were mixed.

Some small gains appeared among electronics and aircrafts.

Merck rose more than a point, and Pfizer was a one-point gainer.

General Motors eased in the wake of news of its top executive changes.

U. S. Steel was about unchanged. The steels paused following the good advance of Monday.

Radio Corp., and Douglas Aircraft added fractions.

Southern Pacific, Baltimore and Ohio and Santa Fe were small gainers in the rail group.

U. S. government bonds drifted lower.

WERB Approves Union Pact for Roloff Employees

Madison — The state employment relations board reported Monday that it will permit production and maintenance employees of the Roloff Manufacturing corporation of Kaukauna to enter into an all union agreement with the company.

The board said that a referendum held Aug. 12 among all production and maintenance workers showed 26 voting in favor of such an agreement, out of 31 eligible to vote.

There were no other votes cast and the board has certified that a required number of employees voted in favor of such an agreement, according to law.

Cloudy Skies Bring End To Cold Snap

Cloudy skies returned to the Fox Cities and Wisconsin Monday night, ending the unseasonable cold snap and bringing scattered light showers.

Appleton had a low of 56 overnight compared to 44 Sunday night. The high Monday was 68. The temperature at 11:15 this morning was 65 with the wind from the southwest at six miles an hour and the barometer at 29.94 inches. Light rain this morning measured .06 of an inch.

The state forecast calls for fair and a little cooler tonight. Wednesday will be partly cloudy and a little warmer with showers likely Wednesday afternoon or night. The low tonight will be from 36 to 46 in the north and from 40 to 46 in the south. The outlook for Thursday is for partly cloudy and warmer with scattered showers.

Overnight temperatures in the state were as much as 18 degrees higher than those reported the previous night. Spooner and Grantsburg, however, reported lows of 37 and Park Falls had 39.

Other Rainfall
The heaviest rainfall—3.9 of an inch—was recorded at Eau Claire. Grantsburg had .28 and Wausau .07.

High temperatures Monday ranged from 56 at Grantsburg to 72 at Lone Rock. Gila Bend, Ariz., and Thermal and Needles, Calif., led the national temperature climb Monday with a peak of 110 degrees. Fraser, Colo., again was the coolest spot early today with 27.

Dog Rabies Program Out, Board Rules

An anti-rabies program for Appleton dogs was shelved, probably permanently, by the board of health this morning.

"It seems," said Dr. Carl Neidhold, board president, "that Aid. (Kenneth) Priebe was right. It's not necessary."

State board of health reports indicate the trouble is with wild animals, mostly skunks, Dr. Neidhold said.

"Who's going to hold the skunks while you vaccinate them?" he asked.

The board recommended to the council last week that a rabies vaccination program for dogs be adopted, but Priebe had the matter referred back to the board for more study.

Other board action: More study of the Visiting Nurse association's request for more city subsidy was ordered, including the possibility of hiring a city nurse to replace the VNA service.

Ald. Mrs. Dorothy Stillings reported her investigation shows the VNA should furnish about 728 hours of service in strictly city work a year to earn the $2,100 subsidy, but probably doesn't.

City Atty. Don L. Jury ruled that wholesale meat dealers delivering in the city need not pay a $10 annual fee if they are inspected by their city, state or federal agencies.

The dealers have only to seek a non-cash permit from City Clerk Elden J. Broehm, he said.

Only a few of the about 40 wholesalers who do business in Appleton have resisted making the payment, it was said.

Speaker Tells Of Aspects of Graphic Arts

Many aspects of the large graphic arts industry are generally unknown, L. V. Kane, Milwaukee, of the American Type Founders, told Lions club members Monday night at the Conway hotel.

Among these is the use for rehabilitation purposes in hospitals, mental institutions and prisons. Another is for "armed services propaganda." An offset press can be put in a plane, Kane said, and print papers so that 50,000 could be dropped on Moscow, for instance, in an hour.

In 1926 the graphic arts industry was first in the country and it is now third, he said.

Tracing the industry's history, Kane said the first movable type was made in 1450 and the first linotype machine in 1878. Now the latest version of typesetting is photographic, he said.

Another change in the industry has been its value as an insurance risk. Once a rather dangerous business, it is now one of the best risks.

Three Men Fined, Jailed After Beating Oneida Man

Three rural Shawano men were fined and jailed after Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiege called their involvement in a beating case one of the worst he had seen in Outagamie county.

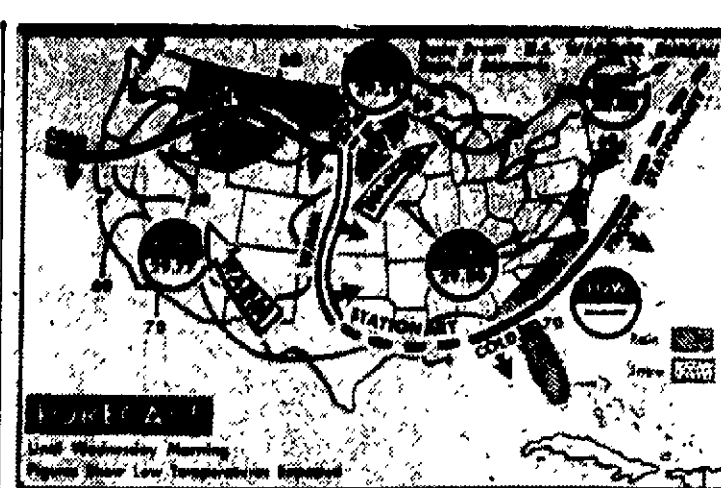

Leon Wychesit, 19, route 1, Shawano, charged with beating and kicking Zeke Smith, 41, route 2, West De Pere, was given six months in jail and fined $200. If he doesn't pay the fine, Wychesit, who also calls himself Martell, will serve another two months.

Patrick Grignon, 20, also of rural Shawano, got a $20 fine for battery and his brother, William Grignon, Jr., 18, got three months in the county jail for disorderly conduct.

Sheriff Donald Heinrich said the fracas started at Van's Valley dance hall in Oneida Saturday evening as the Grignon brothers drank outside the dance hall and Wychesit brought the beer. Wychesit started a fight with Smith, kicking him in the head and breaking his jaw in two places, Zuelzke said. The older Grignon brother hit Smith after his jaw was broken, Zuelzke said.

Smith is in St. Vincent hospital, Green Bay.

Earnings and Sales Up at Kimberly-Clark

Figures for First Quarter Revealed At Annual Meeting

Neenah — Increases of 9.1 per cent in sales and 7.4 per cent in earnings for Kimberly-Clark corporation for the first quarter ended July 31, as compared with the first quarter of last year were reported by John R. Kimberly, president and chairman of the board, at the company's 88th annual meeting here today.

Sales increased $6,940,118 to $82,857,792 for the quarter. Earnings were $5,808,601 compared to $5,410,540 for the same period last year. Earnings were equal to 68 cents per common share outstanding compared to 64 cents for the first quarter in 1957.

"Both sales and earnings for the first quarter showed increases which we consider highly satisfactory," Kimberly said.

"Demand for our diverse line of products is at the highest level in our history. Whether the present rate of growth can be maintained during the remainder of the fiscal year can not now be predicted. With a revitalized domestic economy and a measure of stability abroad Kimberly-Clark should have a good year."

There's A Reason
Yes, there's a very definite reason why there's no shortage at Gustman's. Contrary to many lots where you'll find just a few used cars, we at the Gustman locations have been able to maintain our sales of new Chevrolets & Oldsmobiles and consequently are still able to offer you a wonderful selection of direct-from-owner tradings to choose from. You owe it to yourself to take advantage of Wiscon-

Describe New Control for Atom Energy

Device Could Turn Its Power Toward Peaceful Uses

BY RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer

Vancouver, B.C. — A new kind of device which holds possibilities for controlling the blast of the hydrogen bomb and making its energy available for peaceful uses was described here Tuesday.

The idea of the device was put forth by a Greek scientist who scooped the world's nuclear scientists a few years ago on a means of greatly increasing the power of atom smashing machines.

Called Astron

In a paper before the American Physical society, Dr. Nicholas C. Christofilos said the device is being built at the University of California's H-bomb research laboratory at Livermore, Calif.

The device is called the astron. Its builders have hopes that it will demonstrate how they can duplicate and use in their laboratories the 100-million degree heat of the stars. This extreme heat is necessary to start the fusion reaction.

Dr. Christofilos now a physicist at Livermore, said the device now being built would not produce enough heat to cause fusion but would establish whether the idea is workable. If it proves itself, fusion power should be attainable in a few years, he added.

Experimental Device

Like some other experimental devices, this one utilizes the effects of magnetism to confine atoms to be fused. Ordinary materials cannot be used as containers because they cannot stand the stellar heat. But this new idea is much more complicated than the ones previously reported.

In the Christofilos plan a primary magnetic field in a cylinder is utilized to speed great numbers of electrons along prescribed corkscrew-like paths. When the electrons reach speeds corresponding to energies of three million volts they act something like a very strong electrical current. This current travels through the tube and forms a secondary and still more powerful magnetic field which supposedly can squeeze the confined atoms together tightly enough to produce the enormous heat of fusion.

To Build House

Norbert West has received a permit from Building Inspector Walter Bogan to build a 7-room house, with bath, powder room and separate garage, at 225 W. Parkway boulevard for about $15,000.

Hurt in Fall

Harland Halverson, 40, 414 N. Appleton street, was treated at St. Elizabeth hospital for a 2-inch cut on the back of his head received when he fell from a porch at his home.

Rennebohm, Fairchild Head Committee for Honeck Reelection

Former Gov. Oscar Rennebohm and former Chief Justice Edward T. Fairchild are co-chairmen of a voluntary group supporting the candidacy of Atty. Gen. Stewart G. Honeck for reelection, according to papers filed in the secretary of state's office.

Mrs. John E. Martin, wife of the present chief justice of the supreme court, and Mrs. Walter S. Goodland, widow of the former governor, are vice-chairmen of the club. Atty. John J. Walsh, former boxing coach of the University of Wisconsin, is secretary.

City Grows By 20 Acres

Doerfler Tract Officially Added Sunday Morning

Annexation of 20.68 acres on the south side of E. Hoover avenue east of S. Jackson street is official.

The tract, owned by Joseph H. Doerfler, 1120 Oakcrest court, will be subdivided into residential lots of about 80 by 100 feet. Doerfler is platting the land.

Doerfler's annexation petition was the first to come under a new state law which permits annexation after passage in ordinance form twice and upon a final publication.

Published Saturday

Formerly, the petition would be passed in ordinance form, the ordinance published four successive weeks, the ordinance passed again and published again, to become effective 90 days after publication.

Doerfler's annexation petition, filed in March, passed the council in ordinance form Aug. 6 and again Aug. 20. It was published for the last time Saturday night in the Post-Crescent.

It may be late in 1959, the board of public works has said, before the city will be able to extend sewer services to the tract.

Under Old Law

Annexation of the Hansen-Bassett-Schaefer tract, ordered at the same time as the Doerfler property, won't become official for at least three more months because the petition was filed under the old law, City Clerk Elden J. Broehm said.

That land is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Otto A. Hansen, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Bassett and Mr. and Mrs. Nick J. Schaefer. It includes 38 acres in the town of Buchanan off E. Newberry street. Annexation was asked Jan. 8, 1957.

The Doerfler tract is the first addition to the city since the 38-acre Reico-LaPlante, Inc., property was annexed on the northeast side Oct. 5.

MacDowell Music Committee to Pick Program for '59

The music committee of Appleton MacDowell Male chorus will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the home of Edwin F. Zordel, 534 E. South River street, to select the program for the 1959 spring concert.

MacDowell is observing its 25th season and four charter members and another who has been in the chorus for one year less are on the committee. Charter members are Melvin O. Knoke and Elmer Rehbein, bass, Louis Waltman, tenor, and Karel Richmond, second tenor. Leonard Krueger, beginning his 24th year in the chorus, represents the baritone section.

Also on the committee are Zordel, Mrs. Leone Ferron, accompanist, and Clarence De Bruin, MacDowell president.

Several favorite numbers of former years will be included in the 1959 program. Chorus rehearsals begin Sept. 8 at the First English Lutheran church fellowship hall.

Professional Drivers Fewer Than Expected

State Issues 86,000 Chauffeur Licenses Of 110,000 Estimate

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Tallies of chauffeur's licenses issued by the state motor vehicle department under a new law show there are fewer professional motor vehicle drivers in the state than had been estimated earlier.

The department has issued about 86,000 special professional driving licenses under the 1937 Teamster-inspired enactment of the legislature, reported John Thompson, director of the driver licensing division.

Earlier it had been believed the number of professional vehicle operators in the state would exceed 110,000. When the legislation was in its original form, it was expected to cover 160,000 drivers or more. The chauffeur's license system permits a driver to retain occupational driving rights aside from his record as a private vehicle driver under the driver point system inaugurated two years earlier.

A driver can accumulate demerit points on his own automobile without necessarily prejudicing his rights as a truck or bus driver, for example.

Only about 100 chauffeur's licenses have been cancelled under points credited against drivers as professional drivers. Relatively few of them involved the operators of the large, over-the-road freight vehicles, Thompson reported.

Many Part-Timers Exempt

The license system covers persons who drive a vehicle transporting freight or passengers for hire or those who are so occupied 50 per cent or more of their working time. Thus thousands of part-time drivers of delivery trucks and similar vehicles are exempt.

Drivers who applied before last Feb. 1 were automatically qualified. Later applicants have been required to take a special examination.
